"Our herald hath proclaimed this saying, 'See Aescop dancing,'—and his Monkey playing."

Capt. Burlingame should have had the fortune-teller read his palm.

We can not agree with Secretary Mellon when he says that the proposed $24,000,000 lump sum prohibition appropriation wouldn't accomplish its purpose, as its purpose is to demonstrate to the Antislavery League that its slaves are still wearing their chains.

After all, gentlemen, isn't there a rule of the House, embodying the principle of the Holman rule, that new legislation can not be added as an amendment to an appropriation bill unless it decreases an expenditure?

Senator McKellar demands to know why Perry Howard, the bright jewel of Southern Republicanism, isn't adjudged guilty before he's been tried?

The attitude of Brookhart and Norris on the cruiser bill recalls an analogous case from old man Homer—

"The mighty Mars, in mortal fetters bound,
And led'd in brazen dungeons under ground,
Full thirteen moons imprison'd roar'd in vain;
Otus and Ephialtes held the chain."

And how splendidly and appropriately Jim Reed fits into the classic story as he goes to the rescue of the god of national defense, who, "Perhaps had perished, had not Hermes' care
Restor'd the groaning god to upper air."

Still, comparing Brookhart and Norris to Otus and Ephialtes isn't so hot—they were a couple of giants.

"Work—work—work!
My labor never flags;
And what are its wages? A bed of straw,
A crust of bread—and rage."

The visit of the Prince of Wales to the stricken mining regions of England brings the British government face to face with its own necessity. That boy doesn't have to depend on a hereditary crown—he could be elected President.

Papa Langen seems quite frantic as Susanne skins the Atlantic. We would not a single glove bet on Miss Susie's latest love act.

Tom Heflin's idea of a free textbook for the Washington public schools seems to be a copy of the Fellowship Forum.

Gen. Bramwell Booth wins his first skirmish against his enemies in the Salvation Army. Glory!

Mr. Hoover is arranging to have three secretaries, as one couldn't possibly think up enough work for him to do in a day.

The advice of Dr. Julian A. Burrus to the farmers bells down to this—do more work on your farms and less on your Congressman.

Well, if the published report of the vote on Secretary West in secret session is "scandalously incorrect" the Senate has an easy way to correct it.

Senator Bruce's theory that Federal judges should be proportioned according to their thirst, and not the population of a State, would increase the patronage appetizing in the wet-drinking dry-voting South.

Nancy Miller's little Hindu baby is going to be raised in such Oriental luxury that she will have a solid silver cradle, and be stuck by nothing but diamond-studded safety pins.

We can remember a time when the Einstein theory was that an unmixed dog had no rights in Washington.

The scrap between John D. and Col. Stewart is going to be more than a battle of the "century"—it's going to be a "grand" fight.

President Coolidge is off for Florida to dedicate a new bird refuge. Now that he has taken up fowling something must be done for the clay pigeons of the country.

Pastor Riebschneider's engine trouble in a snowstorm leaps from his plane carrying his mail bag with him, which sure is "dropping a line."

Speaking of the sale of the Hippodrome the New York World says it was built in 1904, and that "Sarah Bernhardt made her first appearance before an American audience there. As Sarah made her Washington debut on April 8, 1881, maybe we're not Americans."

We trust that the Kellogg treaty won't have to be invoked when the Methodist and Presbyterian decide on which name to adopt in their consolidation.

REPORT SHOWS FUND IN CHEST NEAR $600,000

Mrs. James F. Curtis, By Gift of $15,000, Heads First Day's List.

MR. AND MRS. HOOVER DONATE $1,000 EACH

Letters Sent to Federal Workers With Request for Contributions.

The Community Chest fund neared the $600,000 mark yesterday.

With only about half of the team captains of the metropolitan unit reporting, a partial report from the special group solicitation unit and individual gifts of $1,000 by President-elect and Mrs. Hoover, and $15,000 by Mrs. James F. Curtis, the total for the day amounted to $55,488.23, which, added to the $538,617 previously reported from the special gifts committee, brought the total to date up to $594,105.23. The gifts from President-elect and Mrs. Hoover and Mrs. James F. Curtis will be officially announced at today's report meeting of the special gifts committee at the Willard at 12:30 o'clock.

Regional chairmen at yesterday's meeting were insistent that their teams had not had time to become properly organized and all promised that the figures announced then would be greatly eclipsed at today's report meeting of the metropolitan unit, which will be held at 12:30 o'clock at the Mayflower Hotel.

Woman Leads Field.

Mrs. Charles Goldsmith, reporting for the midcity division, of which James B. Evans is chairman, turned in the largest team report of the day, $15,193, and thus won the honor of painting the red line up to the proper height on the thermometer in front of the District Building.

Frank B. Jelleff, reporting for the group solicitation unit, of which he is chairman, reported W. B. Moses & Son 100 per cent, with $1,450; Philipson's, $350, which the employees promise to increase to $500; Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., $581.50; M. E. Morton Co., 100 per cent, with $587; Jelleff, Inc., $2,205.45; Lamson & Bros., $673; Erlabacher, Inc., reported 100 per cent with every employee, white and colored, giving at least one day's pay. The amount will be announced Saturday. The Capitol Fur Shop also reported 100 per cent, every employee giving at least a day's pay, with the amount to be reported Saturday. At Gardinella's, the report stated, enthusiasm is high and employees are expected to announce 100 per cent gifts as soon as all the employees can be canvassed.

$15,000 Gift is Largest.

The contribution of $15,000 made by Mrs. James F. Curtis, the largest individual gift made by any Washingtonian, Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, who gave a similar amount, being listed as a resident of Pennsylvania. The contribution from President-elect and Mrs. Hoover was made in a telegram to Frederic A. Delano, president of the chest and was signed by the next "First Lady," it is reported the interest of the next occupants of the White House in the campaign and wished it success. Mr. Hoover has already publicly endorsed the chest movement.

John B. Flynn had an interesting experience while seeking a contribution at the home of D. B. Walnwright, 2900 Connecticut avenue. Dora, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. Walnwright, became greatly interested in the sales campaign and wished it success. Mr. Hoover has already publicly endorsed the chest movement.

Invalid Capitalist to Wed Pursued Heiress Today

Ruth McConnell Appears to Be in Good Health, Her Neighbors Say.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 30 (A.P.)—Having announced their intention to marry tomorrow, Miss Ruth McConnell, 27-year-old music and art student, and Kenneth B. Coulter, 40, Clifton Springs, N. Y., capitalist, whose romance recently gained Nation-wide publicity, tonight were believed to be at the McConnell home here.

The couple obtained a license yesterday, but could not be located today. Dimmed lights provided the only greeting for reporters who knocked at the door tonight. One newspaper man declared he glimpsed Coulter in his wheel chair, watching him from a window.

Miss McConnell left December 25 by train from Rochester, N. Y., to San Francisco, pursued by J. D. C. Meeker in an airplane. The girl won the race when the physician's airplane was forced down in Nevada. Apparently Dr. Meeker had been commissioned to follow the young woman.

Conflicting reports as to the reasons for the race were given at the time Henry Earl McConnell, the girl's father, who is a resident of Indianapolis, gave out a statement that the young woman was in poor health.

REED DEMANDS CRUISERS; RAPS PEACE TREASON

Crowded Galleries Hear Missourian Call for Common Sense.

EVERY OTHER NATION ARMING, HE ASSERTS

Holds America 'Gold-Bricked' at Arms Conferences; Criticizes Brookhart.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The cruiser bill battle reached its most dramatic stage yesterday when Senator Reed, of Missouri, devoted the last speech he may make in the Senate to a stirring appeal for common sense patriotism and a warning against the "pacifist propaganda and the treason of the internationalists."

Galleries were crowded and senators sat motionless on both sides of the chamber, as the senator held his audience spellbound, as it seemed, throughout the course of his speech, which consumed about an hour. The speech apparently made a profound impression and has still further strengthened the ranks of the senators who will vote on Monday on the bill.

Assails "Dreamland Hopes."

Common sense of the American brand was obviously relied upon by the eloquent Missourian to batter down what he described as the "dreamland hopes" based on treaties and the false vision of assured peace in the face of the lessons of history.

With every nation feverishly arming for the next war, the "voice of the world," according to the senator, could be better heard by listening to the roars from the armories than by listening to the whinnies of those who complain because the Nation does not adopt "Defenselessness" as the slogan of national security.

The senator took the button off the lid in dealing with the pacifists and the internationalists. He plunged his foil again and again to stab the opponents of the bill, and he described the man who tears down "the patriotism of this country as not worthy to live under the American flag."

Not in Any Dreamland.

"The business of a government is practical," Senator Reed said at the outset. "We do not live in a dreamland. We live among men and among nations."

Urging that men sent by the people to the Congress should be "watchmen on the tower," Senator Reed proceeded then to analyze events transpiring in other countries. He said in advance that he did not desire to reflect on any other nation and he expressed his admiration for the English people.

Girl Flier, in Air, Seeks Time Record

17-Year-Old Aviatix in an Attempt to Stay Up for Fourteen Hours.

Mitchell Field, N. Y., Jan. 30 (A.P.)—A 17-year-old aviatix was circling the Long Island flying fields tonight in an attempt to establish a new solo endurance flying record for women.

The girl, Eleanor Smith, took off at 2:17 p. m. today with the hope of remaining in the air 14 hours and thereby beating the woman's record held by Bobby Trout, who recently flew 10 hours and 11 minutes in California.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Jan. 30 (A.P.)—A forced landing that nearly brought him down in the gale-swept waters of Long Island Sound today, halted an effort by Martin Jensen, transatlantic pilot, to establish a new solo endurance flight record.

After a thrilling takeoff in which he missed by inches telephone wires at Curtis Field, Jensen had cruised for two hours over Long Island and the sound when smoke began to stream from his motor as his cabin monoplane was about a half mile from land.

Dumping his gasoline, the flier landed toward shore and touched his wheels on a narrow strip of beach near Northport while his tail-ski stirred up a wake in the water. Jensen was not hurt and the plane was undamaged in the landing.

COUNCIL COMES OUT FOR SENATE MERGER

Indorsement Is "In Substance" and Carries Prayer for Action This Session.

VICTORY FOR LEADERS

After a battle lasting an hour and a quarter the Citizens' Advisory Council, at its weekly meeting in the District Building last night, indorsed the Senate subcommittee street car merger plan "in substance" and prayed enactment of "merger legislation" at the present session of Congress.

Charles I. Stengle proposed the resolution of indorsement and George R. Wales, who was absent in previous meetings at which similar moves had been defeated or staved off, immediately seconded it.

The resolution was only a partial victory for the promoter leaders, however, for they accepted amendments proposed by William A. Roberts, which left him free to appear before the Senate District committee as a member of the council and oppose certain features of the subcommittee plan and urge additional safeguards for the protection of the public.

When Stengle presented his resolution indorsing the "tentative resolutions" reported by the subcommittee to the full committee, Roberts countered by introducing another resolution, which was seconded by F. Tracy Campbell. While Stengle's resolution was aimed at the Blaine amendment seeking to establish the "prudent investment" theory as the proper basis for future valuations, Roberts' resolution indorsed the valuation principle espoused by Blaine.

The promoter resolution declared that the council thought the subcommittee proposals "are the very best which can be obtained." This was stricken out on motion of Roberts, seconded by Thomas E. Lodge. The resolution also indorsed the subcommittee plan flatly, but Stengle and Wales agreed to Roberts' amendment to indorse the plan "in substance," and to urge enactment of "merger legislation" rather than enactment of the subcommittee plan.

Whereupon Roberts withdrew his own resolution, "without prejudice."

ONE BROTHER SAVED AS TWO SEEK DEATH

Dorseys Turn On Gas in M Street Apartment and Younger Expires.

MOTIVE IS NOT DISCLOSED

Two brothers entered into a suicide pact yesterday, but fate decreed differently for one of them, an invalid. The brothers, Lawrence R. Dorsey, 42 years old, and John Edward Dorsey, 48 years old, were found lying in bed in a small apartment at 65 M street northwest at 9:30 o'clock last night after neighbors complained of gas fumes.

Lawrence Dorsey was found lifeless by the Fire Rescue Squad. His older brother, John Edward, was found unconscious. After working for two hours on him with the assistance of a physician from Casualty Hospital, he began to revive. He now has an excellent chance for recovery.

Both men left notes addressed to a sister living at Evansville, Ind. The notes were enclosed in an addressed, stamped and sealed envelope, but neither threw any light on reasons for the brothers' effort to end their lives.

They expressed regret over the grief they would cause their sister, Mrs. W. C. Duddenhausen, 519 South Third street, Evansville, Ind. On a plain envelope was written: "Please notify Dr. W. C. Duddenhausen, 519 South Third street, Evansville, Ind."

Just when the brothers decided to die by turning on a burner in a gas

PRINCE HEARTSICK IN MINERS' HOMES

Wales Compels Recognition of Desperate Plight of Sturdy English Workers.

MEN GET $1.80 A WEEK

London, Jan. 30 (N.Y.W.N.S.)—The Prince of Wales stuck grimly today to his harrowing, self-imposed task of investigating at first hand the appalling conditions in the poverty-stricken coal fields of northern England.

On the second day of his unprecedented tour starting this morning from Newcastle-on-Tyne, he motored through a dozen towns and villages in Northumberland, arriving unannounced in most of them and going into squalid hovels in all to ask the victims of the depression in the coal fields how they live. The "black spots" visited by the heir to the throne were selected by himself; his tour is not being "conducted" for him.

The cold from which the prince was suffering yesterday was better today and the weather was milder than yesterday when he investigated the Durham coal fields.

As the royal tour of horror continues increasing public interest and indignation become evident. The prince himself, or whoever brought about this trip, unparalleled in royal annals, has brought off the best advertisement campaign in the history of the coal fields.

The future king of England got right down to cases today in his effort to Firemen Who Worked 12 Days to Save Her Life Finally Get Rest.

Perry, Kans. Jan. 30 (United Press).—Natural respiration returned to Margaret Brown, 7, today and the constant vigil maintained by firemen for twelve days and nights to sustain life in her body by means of a thin stream of oxygen, was abandoned tonight for the first time. She was stricken with pneumonia.

As her condition was improved today, the attending physicians, Dr. C. J. Elias and Dr. W. C. Belknap, decided that the services of the two firemen, who worked in twelve-hour shifts, could be dispensed with tonight.

FRIED WAVES GOOD-BY

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The United States liner Hoboken left today for Europe, carrying 1,000 passengers and crew. The ship was greeted by a large crowd of people on the pier, many of whom were waving and cheering. The ship's departure was a significant event, as it marked the end of a long voyage and the beginning of a new one. The ship's captain, Mr. Manning, was seen waving to the crowd as the ship pulled away from the pier. The ship's departure was a significant event, as it marked the end of a long voyage and the beginning of a new one.

Perhaps most of the cheers that came from the pier were for the ship's new captain, Mr. Manning, who is a young man of 32. He is the first young man to have been appointed captain of a United States liner. The ship's departure was a significant event, as it marked the end of a long voyage and the beginning of a new one.

BRITISH LORD TO WED ACTRESS

Miss June, musical comedy actress, has announced her engagement to Lord Inverclyde, of London. The wedding will be in March. The actress, whose name is June Howard-Tripp, has been playing in New York.

COMMON SENSE IS URGED BY REED FOR U. S. DEFENSE

The German people, the Scandinavians and other peoples making up civilization. "But we must remember," he said, "that these nations have their own ambitions, their own interests. The application of a little common sense to the affairs of life will dissipate some of the mists in which the pacifists wander."

Must safeguard America. Declaring that nations, like individuals, must safeguard themselves, the senator from Missouri said: "The first duty of this body is to protect America, to make certain we are safe and to close our ears to the whisperings and whinnies of that class of people who have so often led us into mistakes and blunders. To my mind, the lowest form of animal life is the citizen of our country who thinks more of internationalism than he does of nationalism."

Ridiculing the individuals who profess to give the voice of the world, Senator Reed referred to the "propaganda of the pacifists and the treason of the internationalists." Referring to preparations now being made by other nations, Senator Reed said Great Britain has a fighting army of 400,000 men and 700 "great fighting ships," with fortresses lining the shores of the world and dotting the seas, and with guns that command every avenue of commerce. And she is at present building 72 war vessels, the senator added.

France was pictured with a standing army of 727,413 men, reserves of 4,610,000 and an increasingly vast fleet of submarines by which she seeks to control the waters. Russia, Italy, Poland and other countries were dealt with along the same line.

Paying his respects to Senator Brookhart, who described American cruisers and battleships as "junk," Senator Reed said:

"The Iowa admiral tells us that the crew is of no value in war. But a single cruiser, the Emden, terrified the world until she was finally sunk by the Albatross."

Senator Robinson says U. S. fleet is impotent; Others speak. Emphasizing the impotency of the battle fleets of other nations, Senator Arthur R. Robinson, of Indiana, last night said passage of the cruiser bill now pending in the Senate was necessary to the protection of the American Government.

Senator Robinson was the principal speaker at a reception and banquet in honor of Judge John Reese, commander in chief of the G. A. R. and Mrs. Minnie K. Horne, national president of the woman's relief corps auxiliary of the G. A. R., held in the Raleigh Hotel. Others who spoke were: Samuel P. Towse, department commander of the G. A. R. at Philadelphia; Representative Beers of Pennsylvania; Miss Hazel I. Riley, of Chicago, national president of the Daughters of Union Veterans; Mrs. Chas. Miller, who spoke for Mrs. Horne, who was unable to attend. Dr. Harry P. Dunbar, department commander of the Department of the Potomac, which sponsored the banquet, presided.

Starting July 1.

TOTAL FUND DECREASES

(Associated Press.) The commissioning during the fiscal year, beginning July 1, of the first of Uncle Sam's fleet of eight 10,000-ton cruisers built in accordance with the terms of the Washington Arms Limitation Treaty was called to the attention of Congress yesterday by the House appropriations committee in reporting the annual supply bill for the naval establishment.

The committee said that during the coming twelve-month fiscal period it was expected that the Salt Lake City, the Pensacola, the Chester and two other sister ships, as yet unnamed, would be added to the United States fleet along with three submarines, two of them of the class known in naval parlance as the "fleet type."

To meet this expected increase the committee recommended an enlisted personnel of $4,500, or 500 men more than provided for in current funds. The total of the bill reported yesterday, however, was less than that for the current year. The amount was listed at $347,450,448, or a decrease of $14,865,864 compared with last year's measure. This deduction, it was explained, resulted from a decrease in funds needed for construction and repair of ships.

The committee said the appropriation recommended for the next fiscal period was designed to provide for a fleet of 327 warships in active commission, compared with 319 at the present time. A Marine Corps of virtually the same size, 18,500 enlisted men and approximately 1,000 officers, and a continuation of the ration allowance of 53 1/2 cents per day for each man.

The last three of the eight 10,000-ton cruisers under construction—the Chicago, the Houston and the Augusta—are not expected to be completed during the next fiscal year. These eight cruisers are in addition to the fifteen proposed in the warship construction bill now pending in the Senate.

While providing for an increase of 500 in the enlisted personnel, the committee gave no estimate of the number of additional men needed for the eight new ships, but Navy officials in testimony on the bill asked for 4,500 more enlisted men.

Other testimony before the committee was to the effect that the Navy had less than 500 officer fliers, only about half of the number it would need, and a decrease of one under the number it had the previous year.

Majestic Harbor-Locked For Third Time by Fog

Cherbourg, France, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Six hundred passengers, booked for the westbound voyage of the liner Majestic, had to remain here overnight because fog prevented the vessel from crossing the channel from Southampton. This was the third successive sailing of the Majestic to be held up by fog.

The delays caused great displeasure to everybody concerned except the hotel keepers of Cherbourg.

COOLIDGES DEPART TODAY FOR FLORIDA

President to Deliver Dedication Address for Bok's New Bird Refuge.

SPEECH TO BE BROADCAST

The President and Mrs. Coolidge are scheduled to leave Washington by special train today for Mountain Lake, Fla., where, at 3:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, he is to deliver an address dedicating the bird sanctuary and stinging tower established by Edward W. Bok. Mr. Coolidge's address, it was announced here yesterday, will be broadcast by station WBC, Washington, with the cooperation of station WTRF, which is operated by the University of Florida at Gainesville.

The journey today will be the President's first formal visit to Florida, though he passed through the State going and returning from the Pan-American Conference at Havana a year ago. It is considered likely, too, that it will be his last official visit away from the Capital during his tenure of office.

Accompanying the President and Mrs. Coolidge on the trip will be Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Williams, of Boston; Everett Sanders, secretary to the President; Col. Orenum Latrobe, military aide; Capt. Wilson Brown, naval aide; Col. James F. Cougal, the White House physician; E. C. Geisler, the President's stenographer, and a group of newspaper correspondents.

The Coolidge party does not expect to be at Mountain Lake longer than six hours, entraining for the return trip to Washington tomorrow night. According to plans, the President will be at the Bok home for tea, a period of rest and then an informal dinner. The special train is due back in Washington Saturday evening.

GIRL REGAINS BREATH; WANTS TOY BALLOON

Little except a brave "all right" to those who asked her how she felt. "She still is a sick girl, but her chances of recovery are fair," Dr. Belknap said, adding that if she showed improvement for another day, her recovery was assured.

In relieving the firemen of their duties at the bedside, the doctors said the girl's condition would be watched closely and if more oxygen were needed, Miss Coughlin, night nurse, would manipulate the mask.

The oxygen was administered at less frequent intervals during the night and early today her natural breathing returned.

"Ready, can I have a toy balloon?" she asked of her father, Walter Brown. The fireman cautioned her to conserve her strength as she was still in a serious condition. She nodded her head and became silent.

Nogales, Ariz., Jan. 30 (United Press).—Ten thousand gallons of oxygen, all available in Nogales, had been used up at noon today to keep Bracey Curtis, Nogales banker and treasurer of the Mexico Lines of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railroad, alive. Curtis has been ill since Sunday, suffering from influenza-pneumonia.

Calls were sent to Phoenix, Fort Sam Houston and Fort Huachuca today for further supply of oxygen.

It and that neither Miss McConnell nor Mr. Coulter was there.

Miss McConnell appeared at the marriage license clerk's office late yesterday afternoon along with Coulter, who was riding in a black wheel chair, and accompanied by two attendants and Mr. and Mrs. McConnell.

The young woman said they expected to be married Thursday by "the Rev. Mr. Roberts, who does not live here."

Coulter examined both applications carefully, paid the fee and obtained the license. He seemed to be very nervous, and it was learned, arrived here by train yesterday.

Neighbors said Miss McConnell came here about a week ago and that she appeared to be in exceptionally good health and was very cheerful. On December 20, Maj. McConnell, the girl's father, on his arrival here from Berkeley, Calif., gave out a statement that his daughter had been in poor health.

He said Dr. Meeker, a Rochester specialist, had been ordered by the relatives to follow Miss McConnell, as they were "worried about her nervous condition."

Mrs. McConnell, who gave out the statement, said Coulter was a friend of the family and had been interested in the condition of the girl.

Miss McConnell is connected with the National Surety Co. The McConnell's formerly resided in New York City.

Uprising in Spain Dies With Arrest

Revolt Is Regarded as Most Serious Threat Since De Rivera's Ascent to Power.

Hendaye, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The arrest of the Spanish Tory leader, Sanchez Guerra, today in Valencia, appeared to mark a final phase of the "surprise revolt" which has gripped Spain for 48 hours.

The opinion seems fairly general that this was the most serious threat of disturbance in Spain since the advent of Gen. Primo de Rivera to power. It resulted chiefly from action taken against the artillerymen in the Academy on Artillery at Segovia. Some of these students had been expelled and others submitted to disciplinary measures. This caused widespread discontent among the artillery men.

Suzanne's Father Frantic Over Daughter's Limelight

M. Lenglen, Knowing Her Temperament, Advised Against American Visit; He Says Reports of Star's
Romance Are "Rubbish."

Nice, France, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The return home of Suzanne Lenglen promises to be as exciting as was her departure from America. Papa Lenglen is, his neighbors say, well-nigh frantic over the publicity which his daughter received in local papers when the international tennis star rowed with New York newspaper photographers at the pier.

M. Lenglen, according to family friends, opposed the American trip in the first place, contending that Suzanne should not do anything that would bring her into the limelight. He feared that her impetuosity would create trouble in California or some other part of the United States.

The door of the Lenglen villa now is barred against reporters, and to all telephone inquiries he says: "I know nothing. Any talk about Suzanne's marriage to Baldwin M. Baldwin is rubbish!"

Friends say that he has not been the same since his daughter listened to the arguments of C. C. Fite and turned professional. Although the money that resulted saved the Lenglen household, the father of the family has remained depressed. He daily crosses the road to the tennis club which he founded, chooses a seat in the sunshine, and sits there for hours. He seldom, however, watches the play, although he used to follow every stroke.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Open warfare against what she termed the "zardom" of Ruth Hanna McCormick, Illinois congresswoman-elect in State Republican politics, was declared tonight by Lottie Holman O'Neill, of Downers Grove, Ill., first woman State representative.

Mrs. O'Neill resigned the vice presidency of the Illinois Republican Women's Club and issued a call to the "rank and file of Republican women" to align themselves against what she characterized as the "bossism of Mark Hanna's daughter."

Administration Republicans, from Gov. Louis L. Emerson and Speaker David Shanahan, of the lower house of the State legislature, down, were admittedly perturbed over the development. It broke into the open when Speaker Shanahan refused to name Mrs. O'Neill chairman of the house committee on education and offered her instead three inferior chairmanships.

Declines to Be Chairman.

In an attempt to heal the threatening breach of the feminine contingent of Republicanism, Gov. Emerson went further and secured the offer for her of the chairmanship of the waterways committee.

"I'll take no chairmanship at all," Mrs. O'Neill told both. "The hand of Ruth Hanna McCormick has balked me at every possible turn, and not only me but every other woman in the party with leadership possibilities. Her personal ambition for power brooks no interference. She has no personal feeling against me, but is Mark Hanna's daughter, with his desire to boss."

"Republican women of Illinois have followed the leadership of Mrs. McCormick because they saw no other leader. Republican men don't know how to take her. She dictated by telephone."

Admiral Drake was born at Yates, Orleans County, N. Y., March 1, 1843. He was admitted to the Naval Academy in 1863, and after graduation, was ordered into service in the West India Squadron. The admiral also enjoyed the distinction of being the first inspector appointed by the Government for inspection of steel ships.

Admiral Drake was a member of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and was active in Masonic and other lodges. His only survivors are two nieces, Miss Frances Meier, of Washington, and Mrs. May H. Loomis, of Rochester, N. Y. Funeral arrangements are to be announced later. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

52 Students Receive Junior High Diplomas

Fifty-two students received diplomas at the graduating exercises held at the Robert Gould Shaw Junior High School yesterday afternoon.

The principal address was made by Dr. Carter G. Woodson, director of the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History.

WARNINGS ISSUED TO HELP YOU PROTECT AGAINST INFLUENZA

Many have found it expensive in time and money to take a chance with what seemed "just a cold." With influenza sweeping the country, city health departments have published warnings that deserve the attention of sensible people. These warnings are directed against all unnecessary exposure to contagion and outline some simple methods of keeping resistance to disease at the highest point.

Regular hours, exercise in the open, plenty of water, good food, fresh air—all of these are stressed by officials. Keep the hands away from the face. Wash always before eating. If buses, trolleys, etc., must be frequented it is advisable to take the greatest precautions.

Vapors will keep you free from colds and it will stop a cold at the start. It is pleasant and refreshing to use. Put a drop on your folded handkerchief every morning. Frequently during the day inhale the vapor. It reaches the innermost passages and will keep the head clear at all times. One application all day, even increases in strength for several hours. Get Vapex from your druggist for $1. in the little square bottle and the package with the green triangle. Each bottle contains 50 treatments.

Sunday Post to Name Hollywood Trip Victor

The name of the winner in The Washington Post-Mary Pickford Contest, which ended at 6 o'clock Tuesday night, will be announced in Sunday's The Washington Post. All day yesterday a carefully selected group of tabulators were busy at work counting the thousands of ballots cast for the 70 odd girl candidates for the all-expenses-paid trip to Hollywood as the guest of The Post and Miss Pickford.

Wherever the lucky Washington girl, she may expect to have the time of her life. She and the winners of contests conducted in other cities will be lavishly entertained and feted by Miss Pickford, who, at the time, will be screening her new film, "Coquette," in which Helen Hayes, a Washington girl, last season scored a hit on Broadway.

"We broke in Kansas City when she endorsed and put through Mrs. Baur, of Chicago, as national Republican committee woman. I had advised her the committee was 'dry' and that Mrs. Baur had campaigned on a beer wagon."

"Republican women had hoped for a Cabinet position in the President's Cabinet this year. Mrs. Baur, of Kentucky, was one of their outstanding candidates for such an honor. NEWSGIRL BELIEVED ABDUCTED AND SLAIN

Finding of Blood-Clotted Bag
Spurs Hunt for Terre Haute Child.

NEW CUSTOMER SOUGHT

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Posses from Vigo and Sullivan Counties, augmented by half a hundred volunteers, today searched the sparsely settled community around Paxton, Ind., in search of Edith May Dierdorf, 10-year-old West Terre Haute newsgirl who disappeared Sunday morning.

Yesterday the girl's newspaper bag, clotted with blood and hair, was found on the Dixie Lee highway near here. It is the only tangible clue the authorities have in their theory that the child was lured into an automobile and later murdered.

Clarence Brothers, a merchant, today identified a picture of Edith as that of a girl who came into his grocery Sunday noon, bought a package of chewing gum, and then rode away with a man in an automobile.

A coal miner near Paxton today reported seeing an automobile, fitting the general description of the car seen by Brothers, stop on the Dixie Lee highway late Sunday and an occupant of the car threw something out. It was at this point on the road where the news bag was found.

The girl is described as unusually attractive and somewhat large for her age. She was last seen Sunday morning when she bought a paper from Earl Wetzel, a newsdealer, explaining it was for a new customer. Police expressed the belief that the "new customer" was the child's abductor.

Among the hundreds of searches today was Fred Dierdorf, father of the girl. Prior to finding the newspaper bag, Terre Haute police had conducted a systematic search in Terre Haute.

THE RECORD-BREAKING NEW NASH "400"

More can't be said for the New NASH "400"

than this -

Just look at the outstanding features
NASH offers that other cars don't.....

All as regular equipment at no extra cost

Twin-Ignition Motor For more power and speed with greater economy of gasoline than possible with single ignition. At every speed this new Nash Twin-Ignition motor delivers wonderful performance. Instant, alert get-away and surpassing smoothness through the full range of power and speed.	Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication Press a pedal and 21 points, including all spring shackles, are oiled automatically and instantly under 100 pounds pressure. Saves both your time and money. One of the greatest features of convenience and economy ever presented to motorists.	Houdaille Shock Absorbers These Houdailles are especially engineered by Nash to the new "400" with outboard mounting, new to the industry and exclusive to Nash. They are double-acting—softening the action of the springs both when they are depressed and on the rebound and giving you fullest riding ease.	Front and Rear Bumpers These are the finest bumpers built, exceptionally beautiful and strong. They are integrally designed by Nash to harmonize perfectly with the new "400" Salon body design. As regular equipment at no extra cost, they contribute to the remarkably low Nash price, delivered, in this city.
World's Easiest Driver Control We challenge the world on this new "400" feature. Nowhere is there another car so marvelously easy to steer and turn and park, or with such effortless clutch action as the new Nash "400". Nash is far ahead of the industry in ease of driver control.	7-Bearing Crankshaft This is the world's finest practice—expensive but worth it—because of finer performance than is possible with fewer bearings. Each connecting rod is given maximum support by big bearings on both sides. This is the modern type of engineering.	Refreshing Comfort The deep, soft cushions, form-fitted to the body, the wide seats, the roominess of the Nash "400" interior, all help to bring you to the end of every ride refreshed beyond anything in your whole motor car experience. On the longest trip you rest as you ride.	Costly Car Interior Finish Costly upholstery and luxurious craftsmanship distinguish the new Nash "400" interiors at once from competitive cars. You can see the difference the instant you open the door. Nash "400" interior finish is matched only by the very highest-priced cars.

AUTOMOBILES FOR THE WORLD.

Automobiles are attracting a great deal of attention in Washington this week, due to the annual exhibition of the latest models. The tremendous growth of the automobile industry and the domination of the world market by American manufacturers lend additional interest to the display of cars.

Figures of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce show that there were 24,750,000 cars registered in the United States at the end of 1928, enough to carry the entire population at one time. Approximately 4,000,000 cars were built last year, and 1929 promises to be the biggest year in automobile history. The mythical "saturation point," which has been gradually receding out of view, has now been thrown to the winds. The purpose of providing a car for every family is near realization, and now the end in view is a car for every adult. Since there are probably 60,000,000 adults in the United States, this leaves a potential market for more than 35,000,000 cars, in addition to the number needed to take care of the increased population and to replace the 2,000,000 machines that are junked each year.

The automobile industry takes on gigantic proportions when compared with consumption and production in other countries. There are approximately 11,000,000 cars in the world, which means that the United States has about four-fifths of them. One of every five Americans owns a car. In Canada and New Zealand there is one car for every ten persons; in China, one for every 1,000 persons; in the world as a whole, one car for every 64 persons. These figures are eloquent on the standard of living in this country.

While the United States is far ahead of the rest of the world in the use of automobiles, it is still farther ahead in manufacturing them. About 90 per cent of the automobiles of the world are made by Americans, here and abroad. The smallest manufacturer of standard-make cars here produces more than the largest manufacturers of Europe, the only other place in the world where automobiles are made. In 1928 Great Britain manufactured only 154,000 cars; France 100,000, and Italy 54,000. Added together these total only a fraction of 1,000,000 cars that were exported from the United States. The largest manufacturer in this country produces more than three times as many automobiles as all European factories combined.

America has gained supremacy in the automobile world because of extensive highway development, and because of the perfection of machinery which has made mass production and lower prices possible. The interesting thing about the situation is that there is little danger of the other nations cutting into the American automobile market. Foreign competitors are beaten right in their own markets by the American manufacturer. The rapid expansion of American firms in other countries means that American automobiles will continue to dominate the world. With every other country so deficient in motor transportation there seems to be no end to the potential development of this industry.

REFUND OF TAXES.

The Senate has rejected Senator McKellar's amendment to the first deficiency bill which would have had tax refunds passed upon by the Board of Tax Appeals. It is unfortunate that in defeating this inconsistent proposal the Senate saw fit to approve a compromise amendment which provides that refunds in excess of $10,000 shall not be paid except on public hearings before a committee or officer of the Treasury Department. Instead of referring refunds to the Board of Tax Appeals, the amendment would create a court in the Treasury Department which would serve no useful purpose and only complicate the machinery of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. It is to be hoped that the amendment will be eliminated in conference.

The amendment seeks to correct abuses where there is no evidence of abuse. In all the discussion and investigation of refunds there have been no charges or even inferences of dishonesty in the present system. From all indications the Bureau of Internal Revenue has been administered without corruption and with reasonable efficiency.

If the Commissioner of Internal Revenue can not be trusted to refund taxes illegally collected, why should he be trusted with the much more important duty of collecting taxes? There is much greater opportunity for fraud or favoritism in allowing firms to file incomplete returns than in making refunds after the taxes have been paid. The plan to strip the Bureau of Internal Revenue of its authority is without consistency and is quite unnecessary.

If Congress is bent on reduction of refunds, let it clarify and simplify the income tax law.

It is a wonder that every citizen is not in jail for falsifying his income tax return. No one pretends to understand the ins and outs of the law. That millions of dollars must be refunded because it was wrongfully collected is proof of the honesty of taxpayers. In trying to obey the law they paid millions of dollars too much.

POLITICS AND SUGAR.

Dispatches from Manila indicate that the special session of the Philippine Legislature, which has been called to discuss the interests of Philippine industry in relation to the Timberlake resolution before Congress, will send Manuel Queson, president of the senate, to the United States to demand the alternative of maintenance of the present tariff regulations or independence for the islands. The Philippine Legislature is reported to be unanimously in favor of separation of the islands from the United States, and it is evident that an effort will be made to use the tariff question as a whip.

The Timberlake resolution would limit the amount of Philippine sugar admitted to the United States without duty to 500,000 tons annually. All sugar imports above this figure would have to pay the same tariff as sugar from other countries. This is purely an economic question, which should be dealt with from an economic standpoint. The sugar production industry in this country is in need of protection from unlimited imports from the Philippines, where European capital is taking advantage of cheap labor and a free entry into the United States market. This country must build up a sugar industry of its own, so that in the event of war it will not be dependent on imports from the distant Philippines.

It would be most unfortunate if any such question were allowed to enter into a consideration of independence for the Philippines. The Government is committed to the promise that the islands will be given self-government as soon as they are capable of maintaining it. When that time arrives they may look to Congress for fulfillment of the promise. There is nothing to be gained from demanding independence because the United States feels it necessary to build up its home sugar industry. Philippine politicians, backed by foreign capital which is profiting at the expense of American industry, are behind the present move to make a political crisis out of an economic issue.

STATE FINANCING.

Pennsylvania is preparing to put into operation this year a new department of revenue and finance, which will exercise control over all the financial machinery of the State. The department was authorized by the 1927 legislature, but it remains for the present session to enact a law defining the powers and duties of the department. Such a measure has been drawn up and has the approval of Gov. Fisher and all the other important executive officers of the State. While the bill will make drastic changes in the administration of finances in Pennsylvania and give the governor greater power than any previous measure, it is expected to meet with little opposition in the legislature.

By taking such action Pennsylvania places itself among the more progressive States which are remodeling their revenue and finance machinery in the interest of economy and efficiency. The measure will cut down expenses and definitely place the financial policy of the State in the hands of the executive, rather than under the loose control of a dozen different bureaus and departments. Many processes that are now crude and complicated will be simplified. The auditor general's office will become an auditing organization, rather than an adjustment bureau. The State treasurer will be reduced to a disbursing agent. The highway department will cease to handle cash, and will confine its functions to construction and maintenance of roads. Revenues now handled by the game and fish commission, the forestry and other departments will be turned over to the centralized department, and the possibilities of fraud, mismanagement and political corruption will be greatly reduced.

Pennsylvania is taking the most practical means of eliminating waste of State funds, and the measure should make available more money for public improvements. The State is acting in advance along the lines suggested by President Coolidge in his address before the business organization of the Government, in which he declared that the present heavy drain of State and local taxes on the earnings of the people is the greatest menace to the continuance of prosperity. Pennsylvania is taking advantage of the experience of the Federal Government, which has made remarkable reductions in national expenditures since adoption of centralized executive control over the budget.

The statement of the President that the increasing cost of local government "is a red flag warning us of a danger of depression and a repetition of the disaster which overtook the country in the closing days of 1920," should arouse the States to the necessity of putting a centralized, responsible agency in charge of finances. The example of Pennsylvania and other States which are leading in political reform will point the way in which the desired end may be accomplished.

SURVEY OF NICARAGUA CANAL.

Senator Edge's resolution calling for a survey of the proposed Nicaraguan Canal route and of the possibilities of enlarging the Panama Canal was blocked in the Senate Monday by Senator Dill, of Washington. No valid argument against the proposed survey was advanced. The Washington senator complained that the resolution called for a survey under direction of Army engineers. But the resolution provides that the survey shall be under direction of the Chief of Engineers of the War Department, and does not prevent employment of civilian engineers if that should become necessary. Assignment of the work to Government engineers, which means a saving of money, is one commendable feature of the proposal.

A second objection was that the resolution seeks to pave the way for construction of a sea-level canal across Nicaragua. But no one proposes a sea-level canal. The measure simply aims to give Congress information on which intelligent action can be taken in the future.

Senator Dill's argument that there is no need for the survey will hardly hold water. The report of the Governor of the Panama Canal Zone shows that transit through the present canal has doubled each five years during the fifteen years that it has been open. He predicts that within twelve to twenty years demands for passage will exceed the present mechanical facilities. It may be possible to increase the capacity by the installation of a third pair of locks, but this can not be determined without a survey. When Congress is called upon to act on either this improvement or the construction of another interoceanic canal, it should have all the data as to the feasibility and probable cost of both projects.

There was no objection to the most important section of the resolution, which authorizes the President to enter negotiations upon details of terms under which the canal may be built, operated and maintained. It would also authorize the President to determine what interests Costa Rica, Salvador and Honduras have in the project. At best these negotiations will take a long time and may become more difficult with the passing of time. There is no doubt that the United States eventually will build another interoceanic canal. The preliminary survey proposed by Senator Edge is timely and should be approved by Congress.

CHINA'S ARMY REDUCED.

The world's largest standing army has been cut in half, yet the event has been given only passing notice by the larger nations which are alive with discussion of disarmament. There are two reasons for this disinterested attitude: China's reduction of its armed forces from 1,500,000 to 750,000 men has thus far been only accomplished on paper, and if half the soldiers are actually returned to civil status, it will have no effect on the balance of power in the military world.

In spite of this fact the action of the recent military conference in Nanking may hold far-reaching interest for many Americans. The meeting of the war lords came as a sequence to the recent unification of China, and the success of the new Nanking government depends upon the successful fulfillment of the measures adopted. In fact, the future of China is involved in the outcome of the agreement.

In addition to cutting down the armed force, the military leaders agreed to abolish sectional armies and to unify all the troops under the Nanking government; to limit military expenses to $85,000,000 annually, and to have all soldiers paid by the central government. The military chiefs agreed to keep their hands off from revenues and public utilities. The delegates, with even Manchuria, Mongolia and Tibet represented, solemnly swore to carry out the compact to the best of their ability.

The Chinese government has expressed confidence that the new regulations can be put into effect, but there is sufficient ground to be dubious. The most difficult problem will be demobilization. If the soldiers are suddenly turned loose in large numbers they will have no employment, and will most likely turn to banditry. In this case the troops might become a much more serious menace after being mustered out than they are now. Difficult as the situation is, however, it is a step in the right direction and should yield practical results. The fact that the military chiefs have assembled together to discuss the welfare of the country as a whole is, in itself, an achievement. The whole civilized world will wish China well in this effort to stabilize its government.

DEAFNESS IN CHILDREN.

By HAROLD M. HAYS, M. D.,
of the Gorgas Memorial Institute.

There is a great deal of truth in the saying, "Little pitchers have big ears." Fortunately the child is presented with very acute hearing, which he could maintain if environment and improper hygiene did not interfere with nature.

The connection between the throat behind the palate and the ears is through a small, narrow tube (eustachian) which makes it possible for air to reach the ears with every act of swallowing and yawning so that there is a constant massage of the little bones. If this tube becomes clogged, as it often does when the child has a cold, the ears become "stuffy," and eventually, with repeated colds, the stiffness results in deafness.

The prevalence of deafness in children in the United States is appalling. Until the American federation of organizations for the hard of hearing investigated the matter, no one would have believed that there were over 5,000,000 deafened children in our country. Yet such is the fact, and parents should be held responsible and made to see that as much attention should be paid to the ears as to the teeth and to the eyes.

How can this deafness in children be prevented? Parents should realize that repeated colds in the head, recurrent earaches or discharges from the ear will, sooner or later, result in an impairment in hearing that it will be difficult to overcome.

Much of such trouble can be avoided by the thorough removal of tonsils and adenoids. The tonsils have a tendency to cause repeated infections, and adenoids among other things cause a direct blockage of the tubes going to the ears, thus interfering with proper massage.

How can one tell if little ears are growing deaf? Inattention of the child should not be treated with punishment but by having the ears examined. In this age of miracles, a combination phonograph and ear testing machine has been invented for examining the ears of school children so that 40 children can be examined at one time. So it is possible today for a teacher in the school or a school nurse to examine children at periodic intervals and weed out those whose ears show a definite hearing defect. Correctional treatment at this time may mean that your child will be kept from leading a life of needless misery—be kept from isolating himself from human contacts that come only from intellectual companionship and hearing the other person accurately when he speaks.

Send 'Em to Jail.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I fail to see why the prohibition amendment can not be enforced by giving a jail sentence instead of a fine, and where the offense is repeated make the sentence longer and more severe. By that means all bootleggers would be caught—be put out of business.

GEORGE E. CLEMENTS.

Revenue From the States.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Treasury Department has just issued a bulletin which contains some figures that ought to furnish thought to the people. A few States increased their income and total taxes during the year 1928, but a number fell below 1927. Of the total, including income and miscellaneous, New York, of course, leads very largely, paying $759,122,485.03, or one-third paid by all the States. North Carolina comes second, with $236,642,027.42. Pennsylvania follows North Carolina very closely, and Illinois ranges fourth.

Of the total income tax of $2,169,417,231.64, New York contributes $653,428,625.15, or more than one-fourth of the total. In miscellaneous tax North Carolina is far in the lead, with $215,955,788.89, being more than $100,000,000 in excess of New York. The eleven States generally referred to as the Solid South show a very poor record, both in income and miscellaneous tax. For incomes they paid $15,410,617.70, and for miscellaneous, $297,409,533.45. Of this amount North Carolina contributed all but $61,453,864.56. In miscellaneous tax the old North State made a gain of more than $18,000,000 over 1927.

Of the States which fell behind 1927 in income tax, Florida dropped nearly $1,000,000, Pennsylvania followed $19,000,000. Illinois made the largest gain, it being a little more than $100,000. Delaware made a like gain. Each of the following States paid a total of less than $1,000,000: Nevada, Nevada, North Dakota and South Dakota.

These figures show the distribution of wealth through the several States. Of the total paid by North Carolina, nearly the whole comes from tobacco. The same is largely true of Virginia. Of the total income tax, corporations paid $1,336,262,267.33, and individuals, $859,631.63. In New York the corporation income tax was $932,087,924.10, against individual income tax of $390,947,010.08. In North Carolina corporations paid $15,682,998.27; individual incomes, $5,009,940.26.

The Cosmic Element.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statement in your very interesting editorial of last Sunday, entitled "Einstein's New Theory," that according to that theory there is only one substance, namely, "the field," and that the "field" contains electrical and gravitational components, all of which are "linked into a single formula," and that gravity and electricity are the basic forces that regulate all physical phenomena, raises in my mind the question why the theory omits to mention heat.

It seems to me that heat is the primitive entity and that electricity is only one of its many forms of manifestation. It also seems to me that heat is a ponderable entity, as we may burn a ton of wood or coal without the emission of smoke, but with the dispersion of a comparatively enormous quantity of heat, and leaving an inconsiderable residuum. Something can not be nothing; and every burnt child knows that heat is something. Nor can we conceive of anything without attributing to it the property of weight. Hence it is obvious that heat has much to do with "regulating physical phenomena," whether it is a fluid, a "field," or merely an "it."

Whether it is electricity or heat that is at the base of physical phenomena, there is nothing new in the ascription of such phenomena to "one substance." Old Heraclitus, the "weeping philosopher," contended that more than 2,500 years ago that "all things in the universe, animate and inanimate, material and immaterial," are "created and shaped" by the operation of an "eternal element which he designated 'Aether,' or, in other words, 'heat.'"

No Man Seems Great Without Smaller Men to Afford Contrast.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

A MONG primitive people the braggart is accepted at his own valuation. If he says he killed ten dragons, nobody questions his word or asks to see the skins. Civilized people scorn the braggart—not because he is untruthful, but because modesty has become a virtue. The man who boasts is considered an ass, and self-praise must be adroit and subtle to escape ridicule and condemnation.

But human nature does not change, and each individual still finds a way to proclaim his own excellence and call attention to his virtue. We are a nation of critics. We denounce one another's sins. And thus, without conscious effort, we glorify ourselves.

Do you condemn and denounce the life and acts of Jones because they are offensive to your nature and a menace to civilization? No; you do it because self-preservation is the first law of nature, and self-respect is essential to your preservation.

Since you and Jones have different standards and convictions, one of you must be wrong. If Jones is right, you are wrong. If Jones is wrong, you are right.

You dare not praise yourself, but you can achieve the same end by denouncing Jones. The more wicked you can make him appear, the more virtuous your standards will seem by contrast.

To condemn others is to praise yourself. Thus we have a land full of critics "knocking" their neighbors to call attention to their own virtues.

They are not conscious of boasting. They are too naive and literal to examine their motives. They think their one desire is to serve righteousness.

But our impulses are deep and obscure in their origin, and our subconscious minds direct us without our knowledge or consent.

We denounce those who are unlike us because we must prove them wrong in order to prove ourselves right. While they retain some measure of the world's respect, our own position is insecure.

"How wicked he is!" means "How good I am!" "How fat she is!" means "How slender I am!" "What a boob he is!" means "How smart I am!" "They are so vulgar and common" means "Observe my refinement and exclusiveness."

We must prove the enemy an instrument of the Devil in order to establish ourselves as servants of Heaven. "Self-praise is half scandal," said the ancients. Their scorn stopped the mouth of the braggart. Now we make opposition a scandal, and thus contrive to praise ourselves by becoming modesty.

nomena, there is nothing new in the ascription of such phenomena to "one substance." Old Heraclitus, the "weeping philosopher," contended that more than 2,500 years ago that "all things in the universe, animate and inanimate, material and immaterial," are "created and shaped" by the operation of an "eternal element which he designated 'Aether,' or, in other words, 'heat.'"

As to the Einstein idea of the properties of time and space, which your editorial also mentions, they are like the old description of "Snakes in Ireland." There ain't no such thing! Time and space are only terms which define conditions. The first is merely the duration of the intervals between observed phenomena, and "space" is only a term by which we attempt to describe our ignorance of the nature and extent of the intervals beyond and between observed objects in the cosmic melange. They exist only in our brains. The poet had some such image in mind when he wrote—

Then let the world wake; for when everything's said,
It's only as big as inside of one's head.
When we are asleep, there is no world to us;
Which proves that we make (in our heads) all the fuss.

Soft Coal and Flu.
To the Editor of The Post—Sir: An amusing enough article in your Sunday paper about star dust and the flu epidemic, but if you were to write something about soft coal dust it would be much more to the point. Modern Youth.
San Francisco Chronicle: Yes, it happened in 1929. A newsboy on Market street, between Fourth and Fifth streets, chased a man half a block to restore a banknote the man had accidentally jerked out of his pocket. And then the boy was reluctant to take half the amount of the banknote as a reward. We read so much about crooks and embezzlers and sharpers that sometimes we wonder how the vast business of the country ever gets carried on. That kind of boy is the answer.

More Power to Him.
Brooklyn Citizen: President Coolidge has taken out a hunting license in Maryland. Under its provisions he is entitled to hunt with two companions. Possibly the President is ambitious to hunt and fish in every State in the Union. He has already been into the woods and fields with rod and gun in the West, the South and New England. He is entitled to get out of doors all he wants to. The 4th of March is not far away and Herbert Hoover is already studying the problems of state. Coolidge can well afford to leave important national and international affairs to his successor. "He should worry."

The All Highest.
Philadelphia Record: The ex-kaiser entered his seventy-first year in an atmosphere that must have delighted him. Booted and spurred, clad in shining armor, his tiny court gathered at Doorn and on bonded knees offered homage. Sworas flashed and spurs clanked. Toasts to the "All Highest" were drunk. For a moment, it must have seemed to this man, so small now in world affairs, that the hands of time had moved back, that the fatal night of November, 1918, had never been.

No one today wants to "hang the kaiser." But it is much more significant that today practically no one wants to restore him. A few royalists in Germany might essay a coup if there was the least hope that it would succeed, but the evidence is overwhelmingly against any popular reception. The German nation will unite on defending Wilhelm against the charge that responsibility for the war was largely his, but as individuals the great majority will never forgive him for what they consider his desertion in the country's darkest hour.

COURT RULES BOOTH REMOVAL TO BE VOID

Failure to Give Him Chance for Defense Basis of Jurist's Decision.

ANOTHER VOTE IS LIKELY

London, Jan. 30 (U.P.).—Gen. W. Bramwell Booth, 72-year-old leader of the Salvation Army, who was voted out of office by the Army's high council, won the first skirmish in his fight to retain his post today when the chancery court declared void the resolution removing him from his office.

Mr. Harry Trelawney Eve, hearing the council's argument to void an injunction granted Gen. Booth restraining the council from electing his successor, ruled that the aged leader had not been given an opportunity to present his defense before the "reform element" of the organization removed him from office as "unfit."

As a result of Justice Eve's decision, it is understood on high authority that Gen. Booth will be given an opportunity to present his case to the high council, probably at Sunbury-on-Thames, sometime next week. The council plans to meet Friday to draft another resolution deposing him as commander in chief and will give him an opportunity to defend himself, personally or through attorneys.

Commander Evangelina Booth, leader of the reform element, issued a statement tonight to the American press saying the court ruling caused some disappointment, but "has strengthened the council's position" by vindicating its right to remove the general if he is given a fair trial.

The statement said the American delegates "were grateful for the judge's assurance that the high council's error of procedure was made innocently, but all who love the army will deeply regret the delay which entails considerable expense and the continued absence of our most responsible leaders from their posts."

"Nevertheless," the continued, "all may be assured the final outcome can not fail to result in a more united and efficient army."

Gen. Booth steadily recovering his health at Southwood, was described as "very pleased" that the court had "vindicated his name."

"Gen. Booth is willing to discuss reforms in the army constitution with the leaders," his secretary told the United Press correspondent at Southwood. "The general's health is improving and he is being given violet ray treatment daily."

Countess Expires In Florida Home

Wife of Earl of Lauderdale
Dies at 60 After Long Illness.

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The countess of Lauderdale died here today at her winter home, "Villa Aurora."

She was the former Gwendoline Vaughan-Williams of England and was a leader of the foreign contingent in Palm Beach society. She arrived here for the season with her husband, the Earl of Lauderdale, on December 1. They had been at Thirlestane Castle, Berwickshire, Scotland.

The countess, who was about 60 years old, had been ill for some time. The earl was at the bedside when death came. They had made their winter home here for a number of years. The body will be taken to Scotland for burial. Besides her husband, the countess is survived by one son, Lord Thirlestane and Bolton.

wife of the Undersecretary of State were at the table.

The room was effectively decorated with spring flowers and the ceremony took place before a prie-dieu banked with palms and ferns. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a white satin gown fashioned along princess lines, the bodice being sleeveless and a double train fell gracefully from a low neckline. She wore a tulle veil arranged about the head cap fashion and held at the sides and back with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

The maid of honor and the bride's only attendant was Miss Anne Cochran, sister of the bridegroom. She wore a frock of jade green chiffon fashioned longer in the back and a large hat to match. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of yellow roses and lavender sweetpeas.

The best man was Lieut. Harry Taylor Chase, U. S. N., of Annapolis. The ushers were Midshipman John A. Moreno and Mr. Paul Warner Siegrist, of New York.

Mrs. Moreno was gown in jade green chiffon and cream lace and wore a corsage of white roses. Cochran wore a gown of fuchsia chiffon and a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

Later Mr. Cochran and his bride left for the Pacific Coast, the latter wearing a navy blue ensemble trimmed with krummer and close fitting felt hat to match. They will sail February 6 for Auckland, New Zealand, where Mr. Cochran will take up his duties as vice consul.

Among the out-of-town guests attending the wedding were Col. John Field and Miss Frances Field, of New York, grandfather and aunt of the bride; Mrs. James Franklin Rogers, of Pittsburgh; Mr. E. M. Wharton, of Greenville, S. C.; Mr. H. B. Cochran, of Lancaster, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richardson, of College Park, Md.; Mrs. William Wharton, of New York; Miss Ellen Wharton, of Stockton, Md.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bayliss, of Wayne, Pa.; Miss Mary Ellen Rheaume, of Richmond, Va.; Miss Claire Hampton, of Wayne, Pa.; and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sprecher, of Lancaster, Pa.

Mrs. Irving A. Duffy, who is the guest of her parents, Col. and Mrs. Francis Hopkins, at the Warden Park Hotel, will be joined today by Lieut. Duffy, who will arrive from New York. Lieut. and Mrs. Duffy will return to New York on Monday.

Mrs. George Tully Vaughan will be at home this afternoon and will have with her Mrs. William E. Anderson, of Farmville, Va., and Mrs. Egbert Jones, of Holy Springs, Miss., who are her guests.

Mrs. Wallace Chiswell will sail on Saturday on the Carona for Havana. He will rejoin Mrs. Chiswell in their apartment in the Warden Park Hotel after a visit of several weeks in Cuba.

Mrs. E. R. Woodson and Miss Jean Woodson will go to Lawrenceville, N. J., where the latter will attend the mid-winter prom at Lawrenceville Preparatory School. They will return to Washington Sunday.

Miss Agnes Peter, of the Grace Dodge Hotel, is passing a few days in New York, stopping at the Barclay.

The wedding of Miss Marie E. Collins to Mr. John H. McGuire, of Annapolis, Md., will take place this morning at 9 o'clock at the Church of the Nativity, the Rev. Frank X. Bichler officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Swift have closed their apartment in the Warden Park Hotel and have gone to Florida where they will pass two months.

Mrs. William Henry White, of 1729 Park road, left yesterday for Southern Pines, N. C., where she will pass the month of February at the Highland Pines Inn.

Mrs. Granville Fortescue, will conduct her regular Contract Bridge Class tomorrow morning in the Fairfax Room of the Willard at 11:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Coolidge Heads Dixie Ball Patrons.

Mrs. Coolidge heads the list of patrons for the Dixie ball, which is to be given by the Robert E. Lee Chapter, U. D. C., at the Mayflower Hotel on Monday.

Others who have just recently accepted are: Mrs. John G. Sargent, Mrs. William Fairfield Whiting, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert Crosby, Mrs. Richard V. Taylor, Mrs. M. Bachke, wife of the Minister of Norway, M. Quesada, the Minister of Costa Rica; Mrs. Marshall Field, Representative Andrew J. Hickay, Mrs. Fielding M. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Noyes, Mrs. Howard L. Bishop, Mrs. Henry Cook Macatee, Dr. and Mrs. A. Y. P. Garnett, Mr. Eugene Moyer, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Stephen Bonal, Miss Beale J. Kibbey, Mrs. Henry W. Miller, Mrs. W. C. Adams, Mr. John Storer, Mrs. Bertie Sipple Solbach, Mrs. James H. Boggs and Mrs. Frank Goodman.

This is always a most attractive ball in point of decoration and music, and is given mostly to straight dancing to which several extra features will be added.

Miss C. Blanche is president of the chapter, Mrs. Walter E. Hutton and Mrs. W. A. Swallow are chairman and vice chairman of the ball and Mrs. Lorena Hewitt is in charge of boxes.

The class of 1907 of the United States Naval Academy will entertain at a dinner dance at the Warden Park Hotel on February 9. The guests will be the members of the class now in Washington and their wives. There will be about 40 in the company.

D. A. R. Card Party Will Help Chest.

The card party sponsored by Constitution Chapter, D. A. R., will be held Tuesday evening, February 12, at 8 o'clock at the Hamilton Hotel, proceeds to be donated to the Community Chest. The patronage list includes Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Mrs. Deuchie, wife of the Japanese Ambassador, Senora de Teller, wife of the Mexican Ambassador, and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of the Vice President-elect, Senator Charles Curtis.

Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, president of the Women's City Club, due to her work in the Community Chest campaign, will not be "at home" at the club this afternoon.

The fellowship fund committee of the Washington Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the club headquarters at 1834 I street to discuss plans for the benefit to be given shortly for the $1,000,000 Fellowship Fund, which the association is raising by a Nation-wide appeal to endow 30 new research fellowships for women.

Mrs. Samuel Herrick is chairman of the committee of which the members are Mrs. Sybil Baker, Mrs. George W. Bowerman, Mrs. Frank Edgington, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., Mrs. A. E. Graupner, Mrs. Robert C. Howard, Miss Josephine Junkin, Mrs. Thomas Walker Page, Mrs. D. A. Robertson, Miss Cora Rigby, Mrs. Thomas W. Sidwell, Mrs. L. E. Swannick, Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, Miss Ethel Riley, Mrs. O. L. Verhof, Mrs. Chester B. Watta, Mrs. H. A. Whitney, and Mrs. Henry E. Willard.

Mrs. Margaret B. Downing, journalist and writer, will be the guest of honor of the Art Promoters Club at dinner tomorrow evening in the Playhouse Inn, 1814 N street, at 7 o'clock, and will speak later at the round table conference on journalism and the short story at 8 p. m. in the oriental studio adjoining. The subject for the evening will be "Practical Psychology in Fiction Writing." The meeting is open to the public.

Mr. Charles Delmar has accepted the post as vice chairman of the men's floor committee for the Red, White and Blue Ball. Commissioner Sidney A. Taliaferro is chairman of the men's committee. The purpose is to raise funds to complete the George Washington Memorial in time for the celebration in 1923 of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of the first President of the United States. Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, president of the George Washington Memorial Association is chairman of the ball and has enlisted the active cooperation of an important group of Washington women as her aids.

The ball, which is to be a Mardi Gras event, will take place the night of February 12 at the Willard Hotel and reservations are now being made through the Willard Social Bureau.

Education Research Presents Problems

Baltimore, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The way of the education research worker, striving to find more effective means of teaching the children in public schools is strewn with many human problems. His job, as viewed by John L. Stenquist, of the Baltimore public schools, does not end with discovery of reasons and remedies for failure among various groups of children.

FROM THE DESIGNERS OF AMERICA'S SKYLINE

The New York Times Office
Building in New York City,
one of the many famous buildings designed by Ludlow & Peabody.

"Every home, whether it be of five or twenty-five rooms, should be built to give maximum service at minimum upkeep cost."

Ludlow & Peabody

TO be permanently proof against rust your home should be constructed with materials of Copper, Brass and Bronze. Brass pipe, Copper flashings, gutters and downspouts and solid Brass or Bronze hardware and lighting fixtures cannot rust. They serve without replacement for the life of the house.

The greatest architects of America are almost unanimous in endorsing these eternal materials. As William Orr Ludlow says:

"Copper, Brass and Bronze are accepted as practically standard equipment in all buildings where permanency is a primary requisite—public buildings, libraries, churches, etc. And it seems to us that the very qualities which make them suitable for use in buildings of these types should recommend them for use in private homes."

When you build, buy or remodel, insist on these materials. Other metals may resist rust for a few years. But Copper, Brass and Bronze are rust-proof. In the long run they are a very real economy.

Write our Building Service Department for additional information. There is no obligation on your part.

ISLAND OFFICERS MOVE

Reassignment of six general officers was announced yesterday by the War Department. Brig. Gen. Campbell King will be relieved from the General Staff Corps and War Department General Staff and will go to Fort Benning, Ga., June 30, to command the Infantry School.

Brig. Gen. Lucius B. Holbrook now commanding Camp Stoenburg, Philippine Islands, will come to this country June 4, to command the Thirtieth Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Bragg, N. C.

Brig. Gen. Henry G. Larnard is transferred from command of the Twenty-third Brigade, Fort William McKinley, Philippine Islands, and will assume command of the Third Field Artillery Brigade at Fort Lewis, Wash., April 24.

Brig. Gen. Johnson Hagood will leave command of the Philippines Division, April 24, and become commander of the Second Coast Artillery District with headquarters at Fort Totten, N. Y. His present station is Fort William McKinley.

Brig. Gen. Paul A. Wolf, present commander of the Twenty-first Brigade, Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, will become commander of the Fifth Brigade at Vancouver Barracks, Wash., October 5.

Transfer of Maj. Gen. Henry D. Todd, Jr., from command of the Hawaiian Coast Artillery District with headquarters at Fort Shafter, to commandant of the Coast Artillery School and Third Coast Artillery District at Fort Monroe, Va., August 24, was also announced.

Huge British Airplane Is Missing at Kabul

New Delhi, India, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—A huge British air force troop-carrying plane which has been engaged in rescuing foreigners from Afghanistan, was missing today in the wild hill country north of the Khyber Pass. The machine left Peshawar yesterday and returned to Risalpur for minor adjustments. Then it started for Kabul, the capital of Afghanistan, but did not arrive there.

London, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail today from Lahore, India, said two troop-carrying planes were missing and that grave fears were entertained for their safety.

Chicago, Jan. 30 (N.Y.W.S.)—If Oscar Igney's English bulldog, Jack, bites Mrs. Igney again he'll be in contempt of Judge Walter P. Steffen's court. Judge Steffen granted an injunction today forbidding Jack from gnawing on Mrs. Igney, and prohibiting Mr. Igney from inducing Jack to bite her.

"I've got," said Mrs. Igney, "teeth prints all over me."

"I have to keep him for protection against her," retorted Igney. "She rushes at me like she's going to hit me and Jack just keeps her off."

Boston Orchestra Delights In Well-Rounded Program

Beethoven's Leonore Overture Numbers by Erik Satie and Arthur Honegger and Brahms's Symphony Effectively Played, Directed by Serge Koussevitzky.

In a season already renowned for fine orchestral programs the appearance of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, Serge Koussevitzky, conductor, at Poll's Theater yesterday afternoon, will be counted as one of the red-letter concerts of the year.

From Beethoven's charming Overture to Leonore to the majestic movements of the Brahms's Symphony No. 2 in D Major, the program was of unusual beauty and musical attraction. Under Mr. Koussevitzky the Boston Symphony has gained in coordination and power. His dynamic baton never fails in winning the required effect, and the fine restraint, yet vigorous spirit, he injects into the reading of the scores have no small part in the orchestral balance and performance.

That the Boston Orchestra has a large following in Washington was shown by one of the largest audiences of the concert season to hear it.

The Beethoven Overture was a novelty to many, who enjoyed its striking tone contrasts and typical Beethoven treatment.

After the overture followed "Gymnopédies Nos. 1 and 3" by Erik Satie, orchestrated by De Busy with its insistent note of youth and quaint melody. Another modern composition, "Rugby Movement Symphonique," by Arthur Honegger, known as the composer of "Pacific 231," satisfied the lovers of modern musical art and intrigued with its broken, syncopated rhythms and its realistic picturing of men struggling in a football game. "Rugby," as some one has said, marked the entrance of sport into the realm of musical interpretation and it was interesting, to say the least.

Last, but not least, came the Brahms's symphony, as always nobel in conception and beautifully played. Under the leader put his whole soul and the four movements each had a definite charm.

CELLO-PIANO NUMBER SCORES AT MUSICAL

Harrison-Bauer Program, at Weekly Recital, Wins Praise of Audience.

ROSA PONSELLE IS NEXT

Mrs. Lawrence Townsend's Thirty-fifth Musical Morning at the Hotel Mayflower yesterday was featured by the presentation of two well known artists in joint recital, Miss Beatrice Harrison, violinist, and Harold Bauer, pianist.

In the "Sonata for Cello and Piano in E Minor," by Brahms, both artists had a chance to exhibit their union of attack and phrasing most unusual in duet work of this nature. The blend of the instrumental voices was made complete and beautiful by the skill of the artists and the audience was plainly pleased at its conclusion. Miss Harrison, whose reputation as a cellist preceded her to Washington, produced a round golden tone from her instrument, her bowing was masterful and sure and the intricacies of the cello were easily compassed by her.

In his playing Mr. Bauer brought a clarity of tone production and great technical skill to the ensemble success. His phrasing and a lovely singing tone in "Pavane in B Flat," by Bach, which he played as a solo, aroused great enthusiasm, and he won more praise in his concluding group with Chopin's incomparable "Barcarolle," displaying still another side of his genius.

The graces of the cello were portrayed by Miss Harrison in the lovely aria by "Tartini," with which she opened her portion of the program. Two numbers by Hamilton Harty were also much admired.

Rosa Ponselle, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, and Eddy Brown, violinist, will be the artists at the Mrs. Townsend's Thirty-sixth Musical Morning at the Mayflower next Wednesday.

Childs Family Regains Control of Restaurants

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—The Childs family, which lost control of the management of the restaurant chain that bears its name in a row over meatless menus and declining profits, was returned to power today by the board of directors. All executives now are members of the family.

B. Willard Smith, who was advanced from senior vice president to president and general manager last December 12, was removed. Luther Childs, a brother of William, succeeds him.

Other new officers are Ellsworth Childs, a brother, senior vice president; W. S. Childs, a nephew of William, second vice president; Victoria Childs, William Childs' wife, secretary, and Ellsworth Childs, a nephew, treasurer.

talk of Mr. Flynn and at its conclusion produced her bank, in which was 16 cents and gave that to the chest. A playmate, Janet Gorman, who was visiting Dora, inspired by the example of her hostess, contributed 25 cents, her total capital. These contributions were announced at yesterday's meeting.

Boy Offers His Bank.

Charles Goldsmith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Goldsmith, 1017 Varum street, whose grandfather, Charles Goldsmith, is a vice chairman of the Metropolitan unit, has heard so much about the Community Chest that yesterday he brought his cash-register bank, containing $8.60, and announced that when he gets $10, which opens the bank, that he wants to give it to the Community Chest to "help poor little children." The extra $1.40 will be arranged, Mr. Goldsmith stated.

Fred Walker, secretary of Columbia Typographical Union, yesterday mailed a check for $400, the first quarterly pledge, to the chest headquarters. Mr. Walker was also instrumental in having the Park View Citizens Association contribute $25 from its treasury to the chest. Columbia Typographical Union was one of the first organizations to hail the chest idea here and one of the first to pledge a yearly contribution.

Letters will go forward today to 62,500 Government workers, containing pledge cards and a request for contributions. These will be sent through the Government unit, of which E. W. Libby, chief clerk of the Department of Commerce, is chairman, in accordance with a plan approved by President Coolidge's Cabinet. For the solicitation of Government workers. They will be sent through the chief clerks and secretaries of the various divisions as follows: H. W. Colored Teams Add $3,000.

Approximately $3,000 was added to the Community Chest fund at the report meeting of the committee on colored coordination at the Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A. last night. Most of the regular teams had just started work and the reports from this source were small, amounting to $485.75. The committee on special gifts announced that the colored teams had just started work and the reports from this source were small, amounting to $485.75.

"I consider the work of the special committee remarkable in view of the income of the colored population of Washington," Elwood Street, director of the chest, said last night, "and I feel that Dr. Kelly Miller was right when he said that if the rest of the city would give in proportion to a means as much as the colored citizens will give, the chest would be filled when the campaign closes the night of February 6."

Acid Stomach

Excess acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Flu

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspirin, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively attested by the laboratories, tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful relief that Aspirin gives. To do is to step into the nearest drug store and hand the clerk a few cents for a bottle of Aspirin and tell him to serve you two teaspoonsful. With your when you learn how quickly, how pleasantly this greater method acts. Please let it show you—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acid. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1876.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children. For Aspirin is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quick relief for catarrhal croup and children's coughing up at night.—Adv.

Lower Long Distance Telephone Rates

EFFECTIVE FEBRUARY 1, 1929

Station-to-station day rates from Washington, D. C., to:

Atlantic City, N. J. - $.85	Greensboro, N. C. - $1.30
Boston, Mass. - - - 1.65	Kansas City, Mo. - - 3.50
Buffalo, N. Y. - - - 1.40	Miami, Fla. - - - 3.50
Charleston, W. Va. - 1.35	New York City, N. Y. 1.15
Chicago, Ill. - - - 2.55	Raleigh, N. C. - - - 1.25
Cleveland, Ohio - - 1.50	St. Louis, Mo. - - - 2.75
Detroit, Mich. - - - 1.70	Wheeling, W. Va. - - 1.15

These are samples of the new station-to-station day rates under the reductions made to points 130 to 1500 miles from Washington.

Rates for person-to-person calls within the same distances have also been reduced, in equal or greater amounts than the station-to-station calls.

The improvements in service features made at the time of the previous reductions—longer and more convenient evening and night discount period, reversal privilege on station-to-station calls, etc.—remain in effect.

This latest reduction in rates is the third to be offered the public by the Bell System within little more than two years. It is in keeping with the fundamental policy of the System to furnish the best possible telephone service at the least cost to the user. It is another step in making all the American people neighbors.

Capt. George Fried, heroic rescuer, says: 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a Sweet.'

"A.N.S.O.S. from the 'Florida'! We change our course. We on the 'America' strain to arrive in time to rescue the men on their sinking ship, 350 miles away. Through the icy, freezing storm and high seas we plunge on—all speed ahead! Then the night-time rescue, the search lights, the whirling waves, the manoeuvring to get near the 'Florida'. Finally, the 'Florida's' crew coming off one at a time, pulling themselves through the water on the line our men had thrown them.

"These 32 men, dazed, many half clothed, needed reviving after their long exposure. Hot coffee, food and Lucky Strikes—these gave new life to many of them and we on board the 'America', crew and passengers alike, found after the strain and struggle that there was nothing quite so comforting and relaxing as the inviting, toasted flavor of Lucky Strikes.

"Playing this game with 'Davy' is ever fascinating, ever thrilling. And we who follow the sea must be ever ready for adventure. Ours is an active life, demanding nerve control and physical fitness. In my health program I have found that Luckies are most important not only because they provide a respite for frazzled nerves and an exhausted body but because whenever I crave anything which is over-fattening, I say to myself, 'Reach for a Lucky instead of a Sweet'. In the toasted flavor of Luckies, I get complete satisfaction. And I find that toasting, by removing the irritants, protects my throat."

Note: Authorities attribute the enormous increase in Cigarette smoking to the improvement in the process of Cigarette manufacture by the application of heat. It is true that during the year 1928, Lucky Strike Cigarettes showed a greater increase than all other Cigarettes combined. This surely confirms the public's confidence in the superiority of Lucky Strike.

Travel in FRANCE!

Book-knowledge doesn't get under your skin... breathe it in, and you have it for life. Walk into France up "the longest gangplank in the world" any Saturday, to the "France," the "Paris," or the "Held France," the "De France" and "Rochambeau" for people of exacting taste who do not happen to possess bottomless pocket-books. Meet people who know their Europe as you know America... get the international viewpoint at first hand... find your history in Roman France, the Chateau Country, the War area... get your art, literature, music in Paris... learn idiomatic French by talking it every day... study chic at the smart beaches. The only culture worth having is the kind that is a part of personal experience. Citizens of the world aren't made at home... they're born while traveling!

AUTO SHOW CROWDS INCLUDE ALL RANKS

Interest in 1929 Models Is Not Confined to Any Particular Group.

DISPLAY ENDS SATURDAY

A cosmopolitanism is being attained in the automobile show crowds this year which was not achieved in so impressive a measure during previous exhibitions. It was pointed out yesterday by officials of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, under whose auspices the motor car display now is being held at the Washington Auditorium.

Not less impressive than the size of the crowds has been the composition, it is stated by members of the show committee who state that all walks of life in the National Capital are being well represented in the stream of visitors to the Washington Auditorium.

Official and social Washington are represented at every session, observation shows, while at times other groups representative of the city's population are present—intent upon examination of the new models, of which there are 150 or 160 different makes on display at the auditorium.

Edward M. Wallace, president of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, said yesterday that the association is elated with the "splendid representation" of every phase of Washington life as noted in the parties of show visitors this year. It emphasizes, according to Mr. Wallace, the universal appeal of the automobile and interest in it. In addition, it is pointed out, it is not for the fact that every stratum of society is keenly concerned with automobile progress the enormous crowds which have been attending the show could not be expected.

The audience of station WRC will be addressed tonight by Fred Haller, vice president of the Washington Automotive Trade Association, on the subject of "The Engineering of the 1929 Car." Mr. Haller's talk will be part of a program sponsored by the W. A. T. A. in behalf of the automobile show.

The automobile show will come to a close at 11 o'clock Saturday night. It was announced yesterday by the show committee.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau.
Washington, Wednesday, Jan. 30.—A. M. Forecast.—For the District of Columbia: Breezing clouds, followed by light snow Thursday; colder, Thursday night; Friday fair and considerably colder; gentle to moderate shifting winds, becoming fresh northwesterly Thursday night.
For Maryland: Increasing cloudiness, followed by light snow Thursday; colder Thursday night; Friday generally fair and considerably colder; moderate shifting winds, becoming fresh northwesterly late Thursday night.
For Virginia: Clouds, followed by light snow or rain on the coast and light snow in the interior Thursday night; Friday generally fair and considerably colder; moderate shifting winds, becoming fresh northwesterly late Thursday night.
For the North Atlantic: A storm is now southeast of Newfoundland and moving slowly eastward, Cape Race, 26.02 inches. The disturbance that was central over western Wyoming Tuesday night has moved rapidly southeastward to Texas, Austin, 29.88 inches. Another disturbance is central off the northern California coast, Eureka, 29.88 inches, and still another is approaching western Alaska, Dutch Harbor, 29.14 inches. There has been a decided increase in pressure over the Pacific States and the Rocky Mountain region, and abnormally high pressure now prevails from the Arctic Ocean southward to the northern Plains and central Plains States, and western Minnesota, Fort Snelling, 30.26 inches. Pressure is relatively high over the Ohio Valley, Cincinnati, Ohio, 30.18 inches. Precipitation mostly light, and in the form of snow, has occurred within the last 24 hours from the Pacific coast eastward to the upper Ohio Valley and the interior of the North Atlantic States. MAN WOOD KILLED IS TO BE EXHUMED

Brother of A.L. Hagerty Brings
Another Turn in Tangled
Michigan Tragedy.

NO INQUIRY, HE CLAIMS

Detroit, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The tangled Holt-Wood case took another unexpected turn today with announcement that the body of Ambrose L. Hagerty, shot and killed January 9 as he was about to blackmail Ralph A. Wood, would be exhumed from a Chicago grave to determine how many bullets were fired into Hagerty's body, their calibre and from what weapons.

The announcement came shortly after Martin Hagerty, a brother of the slain man, admitted that a request for a warrant charging Wood, Cecil Holt and Herbert L. Sullivan, Wood's business partner, with homicide in the killing of Hagerty was being considered. Ambrose Hagerty was shot and killed at the doorstep to Wood's office in Wyandotte, a suburb, as a result of information furnished the police by Holt.

It is the contention of Hagerty's brother that no effort ever has been made to definitely establish who killed him and that the examination of his body was perfunctory. Wood fired at Hagerty as the latter raised his arm to slug him. Hagerty's brother and his attorney believe others who waited in ambush also fired at the youth.

According to the story told by Holt, Hagerty and two other men, now in jail here, were hired by Wood's estranged wife, Grace M. Wood, to kill him so she might collect his life insurance before he could divorce her.

Hagerty's two alleged accomplices, Taylor Pierce and William Thompson, today obtained a reduction in their bonds from $50,000, two sureties, to $10,000, one surety, each.

While these developments transpired here, Charles L. Hauer, justice of the peace at Centerville, Mich., declared that Wood and Holt, arrested on charges of robbing the Sturgis (Mich.) National Bank, upon the information furnished by Mrs. Wood, will be bound over for trial in circuit court regardless of their alibi defenses.

Baker Is Reported Johns Hopkins Head

Daniel Willard Said to Have Urged Cleveland Man to Take Post.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The Baltimore Evening Sun today published a report that Newton D. Baker, of Cleveland, would be the next president of Johns Hopkins University if he could be persuaded to accept.

When the name of Mr. Baker was first suggested soon after President Frank J. Goodson tendered his resignation, it was said he was unwilling to accept because his family had settled themselves in their Cleveland home. The Sun declared today that President Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, one of the university trustees, had gone to New York to make the offer to Mr. Baker.

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—A statement issued today in behalf of Daniel Willard concerning the report that Newton D. Baker would be the next president of Johns Hopkins University said: "The committee having charge of the matter has not yet reported and the trustees so far have offered the position to no one."

Drug-Clerk Slaying Denied by Gallogly

Former Student Insists That
Harsh Alone Attacked
Victim in Store.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Richard G. Gallogly took the witness stand in his own defense today and read a statement saying he had nothing to do with the attempted holdup and subsequent slaying of a drug store clerk for whose murder he is being tried.

The defense then unexpectedly rested its case without calling other witnesses. The youthful former college student and member of a socially prominent family here, placed full blame for the killing on George B. Harsh, a fellow college student, who was recently convicted and sentenced to death for the crime. Gallogly said he followed Harsh to the door of the store in an effort to persuade him not to try to rob it, adding that he had no intention of participating in any crime.

"I am not guilty of murder and I did not try to get George Harsh to kill anybody," his statement said. "Willard Smith (the clerk) would be alive today if George Harsh had come back out of the store when I took him by the arm and tried to stop him."

Mrs. Anna Bowman Dodd,
Writer, Is Dead in Paris

Paris, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Anna Bowman Dodd, an American writer, died today.

Mrs. Dodd was the widow of Edward Dodd, New England capitalist. She was a newspaper writer in New York in the '90s for the Tribune and the Evening Post and later wrote many articles for American magazines. She also wrote travel books on France, England and Turkey. Her best known works after the war were "Heroic France" and "Up the Seine to the Battlefields."

Woman Jumped to Death.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Vernie Huff, an employee of a knitting mill, jumped off the Tennessee River bridge this morning and was drowned. Her body has not been recovered. Huff was walking across the bridge when she stopped, pulled off her hat and coat and then climbed on the railing and jumped off.

How to Be Happy In Spite of the Cold!

This isn't going to be a sermon on dieting, eating oranges or drinking two teaspoons full of pepsin in a glass of water every two hours. We're not going to harp on the old bromide of jumping out of bed, doing two or three flip-flops, and calling cheerily down to the wife. No, this is a tale of a common-sense man. Of a man who knew how to be comfortable and was. Of a man who was happy in spite of the cold. And the secret of his success was simple, friends; he knew how to dress properly, that's all. Read carefully the diary of this modern man.

Up at seven, and slipped

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL.

They don't let the boys with talent linger very long in this man's town. Just about the time they hit their stride New York calls them to higher things—including, I hope, salaries—and that is practically the last we see of them.

The last to be tapped for membership in the select circle is Colby Harriman. For the past six months managing director of the Low interests in this city the touch of a scholarly, discriminating and experienced showman has been evident in everything to which Mr. Harriman has laid his hand since assuming the managerial direction of the Palace and Columbia Theaters. It is not strange that this reticent and retiring master of stagecraft should have made the impression of his good taste apparent upon the screens and stages over which he has presided. He is a college graduate and one who has brought to the pursuit of his craft the fruits of a diligent study of dramatic structures and values, color treatment, lighting and scenic effects, mention the priceless experience acquired as an associate of Max Reinhardt, in Germany, and Gordon Craig, in England.

In his new assignment Mr. Harriman will serve as assistant to Louis K. Sidney, director general of all the theater and movie production work for Loew, Inc. His particular duties will encompass the supervision of production at the Capitol Theater in New York and the new Loew Valencia at Jamaica, Long Island, and activity as Loew representative in connection with the presentation of the Loew-Publics units in the Loew houses throughout the country—including Washington.

Colby Harriman's departure from the Capital will be genuinely regretted by all who have been privileged to enjoy even a remote acquaintance with him in the performance of his daily tasks. I mean that to include this desk.

Having recently come into possession of one of Mr. Harriman's newly devised open sesame that even authorizes my admission through the stage entrance of the Palace and that the same solace is being personally derived from the announcement that he will spend at least one day a week in Washington hereafter. The trick pass may yet be good.

Mr. Harriman's successor has not yet been appointed, although such rumors as I have been able to apprehend point to the West and in the general direction of St. Louis.

It was interesting, last evening, to learn from "Bill" Ewing, of the Stanley-Crandall forces, that Warner Richmond is a member of the cast of "The Redemptive Sin," opening at Crandall's Metropolitan day after tomorrow, with Dolores Costello and Conrad Nagel costarring.

Mr. Richmond is a former member of the old Columbia Stock Company and from his association with Charlotte Walker in that organization was included in the cast that so long supported her in "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." He is a graduate of the University of Virginia and the least upstage of any actor I have ever met. Just a regular fellow. There are many who know him in the city who will testify to that.

To quicken your memory, it was he who played the role of the elder brother—hit in the back of the head by a rock hurled by Ernest Torrence—whose place as driver of the mail Richard Barthelmess took in the first picture in which he was ever individually starred, "Tollable David."

It is always a comforting experience to have an enthusiastic appraisal of a picture justified by subsequent events. From the hour of its preview, something over two weeks ago, until the present I have gone overboard in praise of "In Old Arizona," now playing at the Fox.

While it is, of course, a physical impossibility for the local house, with its 3,400 seats, to equal the $142,700 gross of the Roxy in New York, with its 6,200, it is nevertheless gratifying to know from an unassailable source that the Fox last Sunday shattered every previous record in number of paid admissions. Difference in the scale of prices may have given some earlier booking an edge in actual money, but in the number of customers "In Old Arizona" topped the biscuit. It has held the pace consistently throughout the week. And, if you ask me, it is all deserved—or perhaps you would rather ask Mr. R. H. Rowe, editor and manager of "Foxes and Figures," an important journal of commerce, from whom the following letter was received Tuesday:

Dear Mr. Bell:

I read with a great deal of pleasure your highly interesting review of the picture, "In Old Arizona," at the Fox this week. It seems to me that more has been done by this picture for Better Movies Week and for other things than all Hollywood and all uplift movements whatever. Here is a picture that doesn't glorify the American girl, her step-ins and step-outs; that doesn't glorify any one particular star, but does glorify the story like a million dollars or more than a million dollars would if expended for milking crowds, sumptuous mounting and romping cuties.

In this era of the smothering dominance of the stage and screen by the feminine, one is almost tempted to direct attention, first to the chief female role—that played by Dorothy Burgess. Would it not be well for moviegoers to know that by her performance in this picture Miss Burgess stands way out in front of the majority of current cinemascapes? It seems to me that with the exception of Lillian Gish no screen actress of today is capable of being so absolutely effaced into a role as Miss Burgess was as Tonia. So completely was she Tonia in the most natural love scenes I have ever witnessed that one can scarcely think of her as being able to take any other role except after years of education and instruction.

It seems a bit superfluous to compare the performance of Miss Burgess, Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe. Each is superb in his rightful place. All three enhance the story as do the soothing swash of the ham and eggs frying in the pan and the squealing of the little future ham caught in the gate.

Nor has there been an attempt to glorify the mere talking medium. Its resources, some of them distinctly new, have been called upon only to abet the progress of the drama. From the facilities of the camera, the talking device and the skilful acting of minor characters has been worked up a background whence is attained the poise, detachment and lack of self-consciousness characteristic of the German films at their best without the unnecessarily slow tempo of the latter.

It occurs to me that the advertising of "In Old Arizona" is pitched wrong. From it one would gather that the picture is a routine Western. It is not a wild west show but a grand opera theme in a Western setting.

My thought in writing this is to suggest that this picture is worth a supplementary review to re-impress the public with the fact that something very near the great movie, long looked for, has arrived and is worthy of a patronage that will make it memorable as the beginning of the era of genuine scenic entertainment.

The section of the public who were present when I saw the picture last Saturday afternoon was utterly absorbed in the story, and the tragic climax, to them, was more satisfying than the usual climax of two dancing youths.

You tell 'em. You have? Well, tell 'em again and believe me they will reach for the good story, soundly and screenfully told, instead of for the usual sweeties and scannies. Yours very truly,

R. H. ROWE.

Next week promises plenty, too, with five new bills to shop among. Palace, Vilma Banky in her first starring vehicle, "The Awakening," with Walter Byron and Louis Wolheim. Metropolitan, Dolores Costello and Conrad Nagel in a Warner talkie, "The Redemptive Sin." Fox, Audrey Ferris and Doris Dawson in "The Little Wildcat," with George Fawcett; Columbia, William Haines, Lella Hyams, Lionel Barrymore and Karl Dane in "Alias Jimmy Valentine," and Earle, Richard Barthelmess and Betty Compson in "Scarlet Seas."

What I want to know now is, is it permissible to substitute the Community Chest form for your income tax return blank?

What the Elementary Schools of Washington Are Doing Educationally

A Series of Brief Articles Prepared Under the Direction of Superintendent Frank W. Ballou.

XI. HANDWRITING.

Aims and Purposes.

Instruction in handwriting in Washington aims to develop a ready means of written expression which shall be acquired naturally and without strain by the child, and which shall meet the demand on the part of the reader for penmanship that can be easily read. An endeavor is made to have the child write well, with skill and ease, not only during handwriting lesson, but at all times; to arrange his work neatly and effectively on the paper, and to practice for self-improvement.

Methods of Instruction.

To attain the aim which has been set up for handwriting, the child is no longer set a stereotype copy to practice. He practices on material which he needs in his work in school and out of school.

The teaching of writing begins in the 18 grade. In the primary grades the child learns to form the letters and to write the most common words in his vocabulary, develops freedom in writing, forms good habits of posture and position. In the intermediate grades the child makes progressive advance toward smoother and better controlled movement and more regular form, acquires a knowledge of the correct way to write certain important kinds of material and develops an appreciation of the importance of handwriting in the life of the school and in life outside of school. Instruction is closely correlated with other school subjects which helps the child see the value of good writing and makes the skill he attains in the handwriting lesson carry over into all of his writing. The work is presented to groups according to the needs of the children.

Time.

The time allotment has been computed on the basis of the justifiable needs of the subject. The average time apportionment is 15 minutes daily.

Results.

Certain definite results have been attained during the past few years. Posture and position have been improved, thus conserving the health and eyesight of the child. Blackboard writing both on the part of the child and teacher has been improved. Tests have been given and a study has been made of the results. These results have shown a low rate of speed and a high degree of quality. An effort will be made to increase the speed without lowering the quality attained by the pupils of Washington.

YOUR OLD DICTIONARY IS OUT OF DATE—WHEN COMPARED TO THE

NEW WORLD Dictionary

BASED ON THE ORIGINAL WEBSTER ENTIRELY NEW

has been fortunate to arrange for its readers to get this high class up-to-date new dictionary, on the popular coupon plan at so small an amount, everybody will marvel that it can be done.

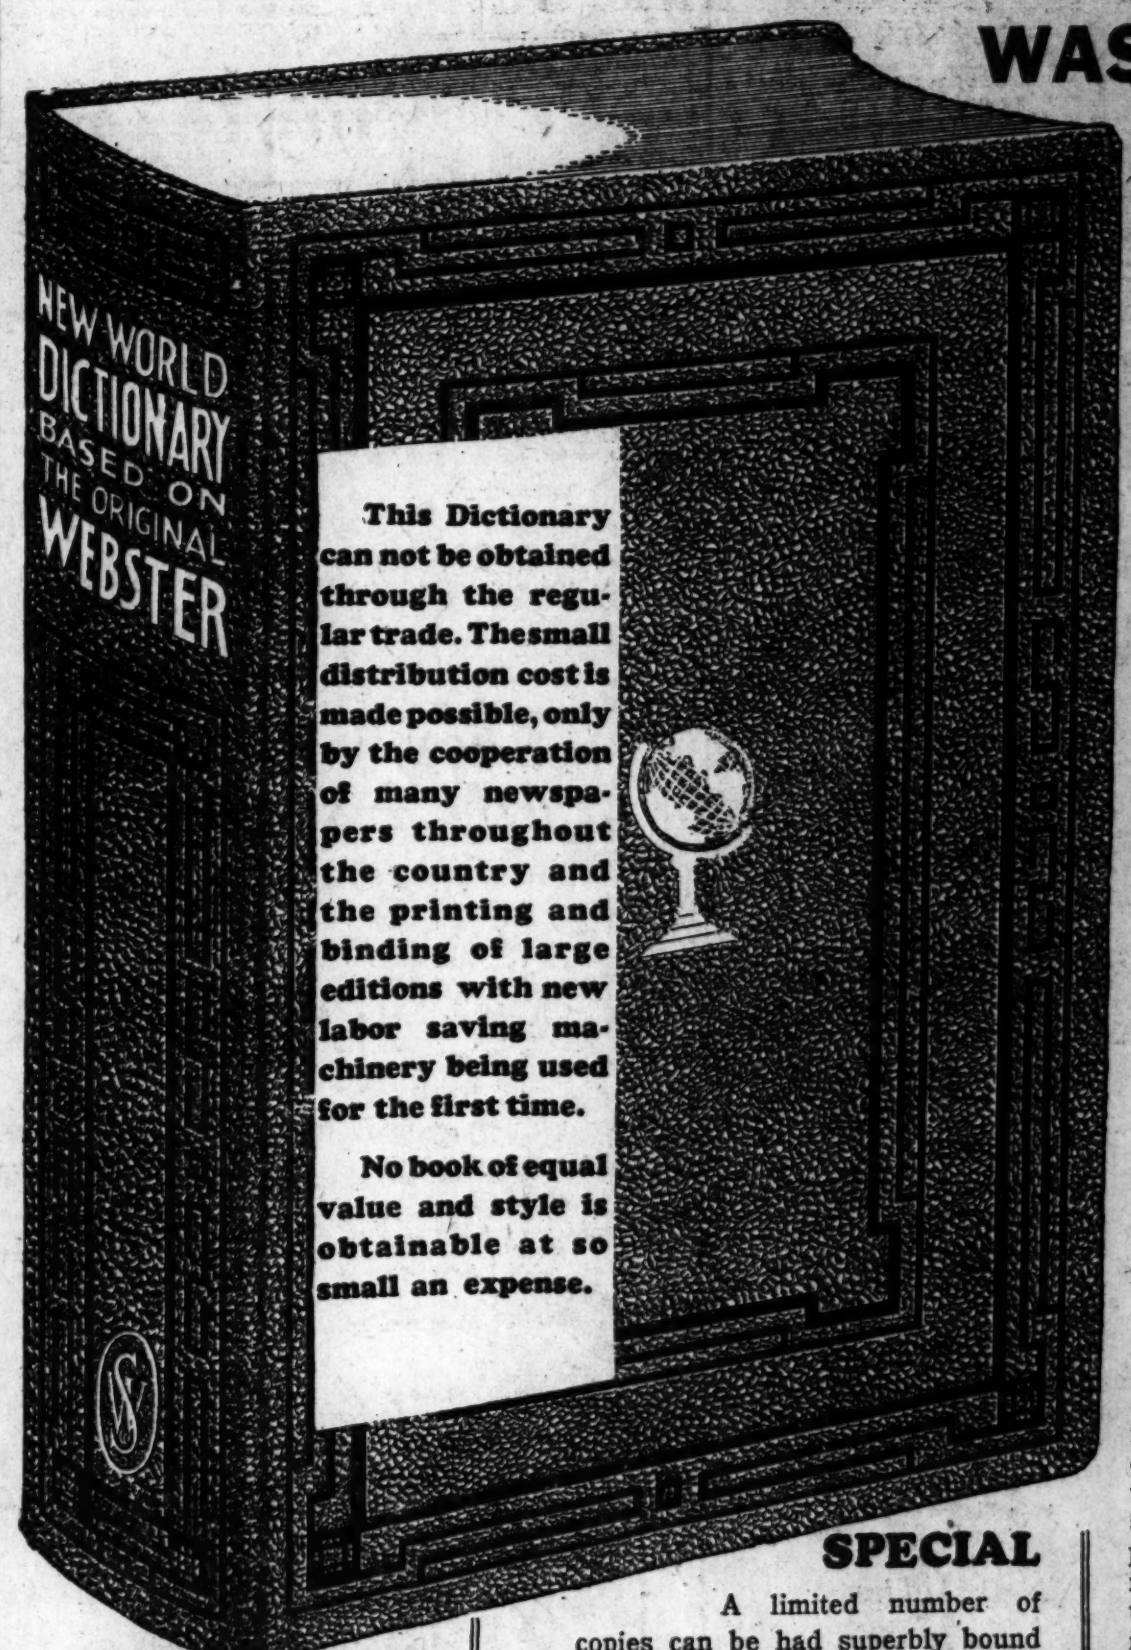

Expert lexicographers have devoted years to its compilation. It is far in advance of any similar volume heretofore published. It contains thousands of new words, a larger vocabulary and many new features too numerous to mention here.

HOW YOU CAN GET IT

All you need to do is to clip three coupons of consecutive dates from this newspaper and present or mail them as stated therein with the nominal sum to cover actual expenses of handling, packing, clerk hire, distribution, etc., amounting in all to only .98c.

Mail orders include postage as explained in the coupon.

This Dictionary can not be obtained through the regular trade. The small distribution cost is made possible, only by the cooperation of many newspapers throughout the country and the printing and binding of large editions with new labor saving machinery being used for the first time.

No book of equal value and style is obtainable at so small an expense.

SPECIAL

A limited number of copies can be had superbly bound in art covers, maroon and old gold, embossed design, with full gold edges and thumb indexed for only one dollar extra. Packed in a beautiful box. An ideal gift. Books bound in this style sell for several times the amount.

This illustration shows the size but gives no idea of the handsome binding and superior contents. Call and see or send for the book.

Coming to Theaters

With the Ziegfeld hit, "Bally," drawing large and enthusiastic audiences at the Belasco Theater this week, the musical comedy stock company there will present another musical hit, "Oh, Boy," beginning next Sunday evening, February 3.

Helen Ault, who earned star honors for two seasons with Eddie Dowling in "Honeydew Lane," will be added to the long list of Mr. Cook's principals. Names Hamilton, Robert Caplan, Frank Gallagher, Thelma Parker, Edward Metcalfe, Jack Clouston, Rosa Snowden, Robert Burton, Bruce Torrence, Robert Garbath and the Gorgeous Garden of Girls, will be seen and heard.

The book and lyrics of "Oh, Boy" are by P. G. Wodehouse and Guy Bolton and the music by Jerome Kern. The story concerns Jackie Sampson, a young actress, whose adventurous spirit and sense of humor keep her in hot water throughout the play. Posing, first as the wife of a man, then as a girl, and who, incidentally, that very night, was married to the girl of his dreams, and then as this same innocent young man's Quaker aunt, she keeps the fun at high speed throughout the show.

The song hits of "Oh, Boy" include such melody gems as "You Never Knew About Me," "A Pal Like You," "An Old-Fashioned Will Till the Clouds Roll By," "Nesting Time" and "Words Are Not Needed."

Next week's attraction at the Strand Theater will be a double-header, or two shows for the price of one. The featured vehicle is "Jazz Time Revisé," with everything new, but the title.

Kitty Madison again is the star, with Harry Evanson, the featured funster. Other principals include Frank Kay, a juvenile; Lew Harris, straight man; George Bahn, a second comic; Mickey Brandon, innkeeper Babe Abbott and Etta Moore, prima donna. The sixteen young ladies of the chorus are not only youthful but are a group who really can dance in unison and sing in concert.

GERMAN GRAND OPERA.
The season of Wagnerian Grand Opera recently inaugurated by the German Grand Opera Company at Poli's Theater with a performance of "Das Rheingold," the prologue to the Nibelungen Ring trilogy, on Wednesday afternoon, January 30, will be resumed next Monday evening, February 4, at 7:45 o'clock, when "Die Walkure," the first part of the "Ring," is presented under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

The German Grand Opera Company will present "Tristan und Isolde," also by Richard Wagner, though not a part of the "Ring," on the following evening, Tuesday, February 5, at 7:45 o'clock. Two evenings later, Thursday, February 7, at 7:45 o'clock, "Siegfried" will be offered. The "Ring" series will close on Saturday evening, February 9, at 7 o'clock with a performance of "Gotterdammerung."

CELEBRATED CONTRALTO.
Sigrid Onegin, contralto, is announced to make her only Washington concert appearance at Poli's Theater next Tuesday afternoon, February 5, at 4:30 o'clock, as the fourth attraction in Mrs. Wilson-Greene's series of afternoon musical events at that theater.

Mrs. Onegin will be assisted at the piano by Franz Schreier. Her program will open with the aria, "Ah! Mon Dieu!" from Meyerbeer's "Le Prophète." She will also sing the aria from "Eugénie" and "Fatale" from Verdi's "Don Carlos," as well as the scene from "The Barber of Seville" and "Billet de Loterie." "Non je ne veux pas chanter."

Songs by Mozart, Haydn and Schubert are also included in the afternoon's program.

MODERN GERMANY.
E. M. Newman, of Travelite fame, brings "Germany 1929" to the National Theater Sunday afternoon. The ninth anniversary of the German republic was recently celebrated and agreeable changes are to be found at every turn.

While rambling through Germany this year, Mr. Newman missed the "Verdahn" signs which have been replaced with "Willkommen." This made it possible for the master traveler to visit and photograph many interesting things that have been limited to infrequent travelers. From an airplane striking views were obtained of Lake Constance, Lindau, Friedrichshafen with its Zeppelin works and numerous views of the Alps. A visit was made to the villa Wackerbarth, Munich, the Rhine, Wagner Road, Berlin, Dresden, Leipzig, Weimar, Riesa, Bayreuth, Nuremberg, Regensburg, Munich, the Rhine, Cologne and Düsseldorf will be revealed as Mr. Newman found them last year.

Radio Offers Von Weber's "Freischutz"

Famous Opera on WMAL at 8:30—Earhart to Tell About Flying on WRC at 7—Children's Half Hour on WJVS.

Carl von Weber's opera, "Der Freischütz," will be the offering of the United Opera Company from WMAL at 8:30 o'clock tonight. The meaning of "Der Freischütz" is "free marksman," or a marksman who uses charmed bullets. The story of the opera is founded on an old German tradition that whoever sells his soul to Zamiel, the Demon Hunter, will receive seven magic bullets, with promises of a fresh supply in exchange for any other victims obtained for the demon.

In the opera, Max and Caspar, assistants to Cuno, head ranger to a Bohemian prince, Caspar is in the power of the demon Zamiel. Because he is jealous of Max's love for Cuno's daughter Agnes, and in order to prolong his own life, he persuades Max to seek the magician, Caspar, meanwhile, has arranged that one of Max's magic bullets shall kill Agnes, presumably by mistake, but his plans miscarry and he himself is killed. Zamiel carries him off, Max is forgiven, and all ends happily.

A special arrangement of Rubinstein's "Kamennoi Obozr" will be the feature of the program that the Columbians will present at 10 o'clock through WMAL. In addition, the Columbians, under the baton of Freddie Rich, will give special interpretations to such numbers as "Tin Pan Parade," "Was It a Dream," and "Love-Tale of Alsace-Lorraine."

The taking of a South Sea Island picture will be the subject of the next hour that "Close-Up" has prepared for presentation through WMAL. David McWilliams and his orchestra will furnish an hour of dance music, beginning at 11 o'clock. An hour's band concert is scheduled at 7:30 o'clock, by the Army Band.

Amelia Earhart, first woman flier to span the Atlantic, will discuss the problems of "Every-Day Flying" in a talk to be broadcast at 7 o'clock this evening through Station WRC. In addition to being the first woman to hold the Atlantic, Miss Earhart is holder of the first international pilot's license ever issued to a woman, and is president of the National Aeronautic Association.

A special transcription of Rubinstein's "Romance" will be played by the Singing Violins in the Selbering program at 9 o'clock from WRC. Under the direction of Frank Black, pianist and arranger of the Selbering Singers, the program opens with "The Song of India," from Rimsky-Korsakov's opera "Sadko," and continues with the famous aria, "Salut Demeure Chaste et Pure," from Gounod's opera "Faust," sung by James Melton, tenor. Melton will also sing "Roses of Picardy," while a piano duet, by Osmann and Arden, of a special transcription of "Marchetti," a composition by Scherzinger, adds further interest to the program.

The "Humoresque" of Tchaikovsky features the entertainment to be broadcast during the Halsey-Stuart hour at 10 o'clock. Other musical highlights of the period are Victor Herbert's "Al Fresco," Godowsky's descriptive sketch, "Old Vienna," and "Only a Rose," from Fritz's "Vagabond King."

The Slumber Music program follows: "Ballet Egyptian," Luigini; "Bruderlein Fein," Fall; "Prelude in G Minor," Bachmann; "Selection from 'Apple Blossoms,'" Jacob-Kreiser; a cello solo by Oswald Mazuch; suite, "In Arcady," Mazuch; "Serenade," Volkman; "Evening," Mazuch.

Station WJVS will be on the air at 7 o'clock, opening with the Children's Half Hour. E. B. Merritt, assistant commissioner of Indian affairs, will be a speaker at 8:15 o'clock, in the new series presenting heads of the various Government departments. The Homburgians are scheduled for 10:30 o'clock.

Station WOL will be on the air at 6 o'clock to present several short features, including dinner music, the Carlton dinner concert, and "Amos 'n' Andy." Beginning at 10 o'clock two hours of entertainment will be broadcast.

The FREE Educational Bureau of The Washington Post will be glad to supply you with booklets and other information on Schools and Colleges in and out of Washington.

Hughes for Memorial to Washington

Former Secretary Will Urge Completion of Building on Mall, Speaking Through WRC on February 22.

As a further effort to arouse interest in the completion of the George Washington Memorial, adjacent to Pennsylvania avenue, the cornerstone of which was laid in 1921, former Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes will speak over station WRC and a network of stations at 7:30 o'clock, February 22. Mr. Hughes will take for his subject, "The Debt the Nation Owes to George Washington."

The project is eight or ten years old and the dedicatory address was delivered by President Harding. A moving spirit in its erection has been Mrs. Henry Dimock, one of the Capital's society leaders, and a sister of William C. Whitney, Secretary of the Navy in the cabinet of President Cleveland.

The pot was boiling yesterday with regard to a successful Federal Radio Commission on O. H. Caldwell, in charge of this zone. Senator George H. Moses, of New Hampshire, formally proposed the name of O. P. Gascoigne of Washington, previously mentioned in The Post as a candidate, to President Coolidge. Although Mr. Gascoigne has lived here many years he has always kept his voting residence at Mount Vernon, N. C.

Under the radio act, residents of the District are not eligible to serve on the commission. Several additional names were spoken of yesterday, among them Charles C. Koster, Federal radio supervisor at Boston; Capt. Guy Hill, U. S. A., broadcast engineer of the Radio Commission, and R. H. Marriott and Edgar H. Felix, radio engineers, of New York.

Commissioner Sam Pickard, of the middle western zone, whose resignation is effective tomorrow, was told at Walter Reed Hospital yesterday where he went, thinking something more serious might be the matter, that what he needed most was a good rest.

Accordingly, this will be taken before he resumes his new duties as vice-president of the Columbia Broadcasting System in New York. B. K. Pratt, a Chicago newspaper man, mentioned as Mr. Pickard's successor, was in town yesterday.

Among the new names heard for this position were Maj. Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, of Iowa, formerly chief of United States Signal Corps; Jacob Dickson, of Chicago; former Representative W. D. Jamieson, of Iowa, now living in Washington; John St. Austel, of the Iowa Licensure League, and H. C. Butcher, of Iowa, with the National Fertilizer Association.

Charles Emerson Cook's Savoy Musical Comedy at the Embassy Theatre will become a weekly air feature over Station WOL, beginning tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

Robert Capron, Rene Hamilton, Frank Gallagher, Thelma Parker, Edward Metcalfe, Rosa Snowden, Vance Leonard and Robert Burton will sing the songs of the Savoy Musical Comedy, which is the most popular musical success, "Oh, Boy," which Mr. Cook will present next week, beginning tomorrow evening. The selections will include "Till the Clouds Roll By," "Nesting Time," "A Pal Like You" and "An Old-Fashioned Wife."

"The Old-Fashioned Wife" is by Jerome Kern and is exceptionally melodious and engaging. On following Fridays the Savoy Musical Comedy Company will broadcast selections from Dillingham's "Good Morning, Dearly," George M. Cohan's "Little Kelly Kelly" and George Gerwig's "Trip-Tap."

Starting next Monday morning, station WMAL, at 12:30 o'clock, will present a morning program each week, except Sunday, from 10 o'clock to 1:15 o'clock. On Saturday the program will begin at 11:30 o'clock and close at 1:15 o'clock. Afternoon programs will also be presented on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, starting at 3 o'clock and continuing uninterrupted to the close of the evening program.

"Window Shopping"
Red, White and Blue for Beach. Truly patriotic is the woman who will wear upon the shore a bathing suit which has shorts of bright blue and a top, woven onto, of red and white striped jersey. Over this is worn a cape of red with a deep blue border and ornaments of red and white disks.

THE QUESTIONS.
What should the bidding of this hand be at Auction and Contract? What should the play be to the first three tricks?

THE ANSWERS.
At Contract, South would bid one contract with a bid of one No Trump. At Auction, South would bid one No Trump; the correct bid with a count of 16, and one untrumped suit. North, with a count of 9, would bid two No Trumps; and South having more than minimum No Trump, then would bid three.

The play to the first three tricks should be:
Trick 1. West, Four of Spades; North, the Five; East, King and South, the Deuce.
Trick 2. East, Ten of Spades; South, the Queen; West, the Trey; and North, the Eight.
Trick 3. South, Trey of Diamonds; West, the Deuce; North, the Ace; and East, the Four.

When the Declarer wins trick 2, he knows that West has three Spades remaining and East one. He can count on winning two more Spades, two Hearts and three Diamonds; also three Clubs if he can make them before the adversaries win two more Spades (three in all) together with the Ace and King of Clubs which they are sure to take. If the Ace and King of Clubs are both in the West hand, the Declarer's case is hopeless; if they are both in the East hand, his game is easy; if they are divided, he may make game by the use of a little ingenuity. To trick 4, Dummy makes the Trey of Clubs which East is not apt to cover with an honor; and West will have his honor abstracted from his hand if he has only two Clubs, as is quite likely—before the Spades are established, Declarer making four-odd.

Hand-Woven Bags.
Large bags for the South are made of hand-woven material and mounted upon amber, rope. Through the material are woven silver threads, which give a delightful glint and sheen to the bags.

Quilted Bags.
Small bags of quilted calico are cut barrel-shaped and finished with slide fasteners. They hang from the wrist by a small strap of the material.

Monogrammed Blouse.
A smart little linen blouse guine added to a monogram embroidered over the heart.

For the Desk.
A convenient ornament for the desk consists of an engraved pad covered with a leatherette, which has a piece of carved jade in the top. This pad is attached to a heavy stand, which has a swinging holder for a combination fountain pen and pencil all in one—a most useful and sensible arrangement.

Jeans INTERPRETS the MODE

Two intriguing afternoon dresses, one of black crepe satin, with incrustations of the shiny side, and cuffs of white satin, trimmed in red and black braid; the other of black moire, with white georgette collar and a narrow red edging on collar, along the incrustations and on the skirt. (Both courtesy of the Maison Premet.)

can design a frock of your own; you can remake last year's coat into a lovely new one; you can— But then, you know, all these things you can do when you know how to sew!

Positively promise it—what? Why, that we can teach you how to sew, and charge you no more than the cost of the material. We have a self-addressed envelope to the Dore Department of The Washington Post for our illustrated leaflet, which gives you all the secrets you have always suspected lurked in the talent of being well dressed on a very limited wardrobe budget.

CHARMING as were the possibilities of beige and blue, we are pleased that Dame Fashion has allotted a definite and important part to other hues. There are so many women in the world with coloring neutral, or nearly so, who are quite lovely with a touch of brightness in their wardrobe, yet who are almost drab in grays, browns and deep navy.

Green, for instance, has very amiable lived up to our predictions about its increasing use and popularity, in everything from the palest of greens, which just makes brilliant white, to the deepest of green-blacks.

Lenief, one of the houses which always may be counted on for a brilliant expression of the color trend, employs green with an excellent understanding of its possibilities. We find, looking at these two Lenief models as examples, an evening dress of black velvet has the back formed by two large panels, which are lined in Nile green, giving a fascinating glimpse of the green against the black as the wearer moves about. The whole is accented with rhinestone trimming.

A gray wool sports ensemble has the coat lined in brilliant green and incrustations of the shiny side of the same green combined with black in a striking motif.

And then there are the new sports belts in red and blue suede, interlaced with interesting buckles of gold. And glared leather belts in red, blue or bright green, with gilt or silver buckles of intricate designs. And a wide, dark blue or red braided belt with a composition buckle of modernistic design.

There is one outcutter who shows sports belts on practically all evening gowns. These consist of a narrow belt of velvet or moire ribbon worn at the natural waistline. The belts are held together by slides of brilliant rhinestone.

HOW TO KEEP WELL
By DR. W. A. EVANS

COLD WEATHER SUGGESTIONS.
To make shoes waterproof, the United States Department of Agriculture recommends the use of any one of the following recipes:

1. Lanolin, 8 ounces; dark petroleum, 8 ounces; paraffin wax, 2 ounces.
2. Petroleum, 8 ounces; beeswax, 2 ounces.
3. Petroleum, 8 ounces; paraffin wax, 4 ounces; lanolin, 1 ounce; crude turpentine gum, 2 ounces.
4. Tallow, 12 ounces; cod oil, 4 ounces.

The shoes are to be well dried and warmed. The grease should be warmed. It is rubbed well into the leather while warm. Plenty of grease must get into the space where the sole joins the upper. The sole must get a plentiful rubbing.

The shoes should be large enough to permit the wearing of loose, woolen socks. There must be the minimum amount of pressure on and binding of the foot. At night the shoes and socks should be removed and well dried.

The ends of the trousers leg should be covered by boot top or by socks. The wind and cold should be excluded from around the ankles. In many arctic regions the trousers come well above the waistline and fit close around the body. The coat or the body garment either goes into the trousers or is closely, but elastically, about the body. This jacket is provided with a hood which goes over the head, leaving only the face exposed. The sleeves sometimes terminate in mitts or gloves. More frequently the sleeves terminate in close fitting wrist bands. By this arrangement loss of heat around the waist, around the neck and around the wrists is prevented. This garment must not bind.

The warmest garments are those which consist in part of a very loose fabric, and in part of one that is impervious to wind. Nothing is warmer than a sheepskin tanned with the wool on. In making the garment the hide is used for the outside and wind and water impervious layer, and the wool for the heat-insulating inside layer. This is a better arrangement than the original sheepskin, but the wool must be in his choice by the need of supplying the skin with blood.

ROWING AND WEAK HEART.
H. P. C. writes: I am a man 29 years old; am troubled with a weak heart. Is rowing bad for my heart?

REPLY.
It should not be. A proper answer depends on the state of your compensation.

COLD BATHS NOT HARMFUL.
G. J. writes: Is it harmful for a 18-year-old girl to take cold water baths just before going to bed or in the afternoon?

REPLY.
No.

HARM IN SMOKING.
S. M. writes: Please tell me if smoking (not in excess) is harmful now or will be in the future to a girl of 20.

REPLY.
Smoking is no more harmful to women than it is to men of the same age and constitution.

Lace... and a Suggested Train
Lacour and Suzanne Talbot suggested just such a frock as this in their opening

Black lace... alluring... sophisticated... cut with lines that are young and like... a plume stiffened with horsehair braid... and a panel that sweeps down the back like a train.

"Salt of the Earth."
II. Salt in the Open.

ONCE I read a story in which a young teacher went to a ranching district to take care of a school. While riding in a stage coach, she found herself seated beside a rancher and talked with him. The subject of salt came up, and she mentioned the story in the Bible about Lot's wife being turned into a pillar of salt.

It is true that cattle lick up salt; but it is also true that salt stands in the open in many a place. Around the Dead Sea and Great Salt Lake, salt is to be found where salt water has dried up.

In Utah the Saltdome salt field is famous. At one time this field was the scene of an auto race. Teddy Telford won the race, and made a world's record. He traveled a mile in 23 seconds. That speed has since been beaten—autos along the coast of Florida have made a mile in as little as 15 seconds. In Spain there are hills of salt which rise to a height of more than 400 feet. These hills are composed of rock salt.

In India is a mountain system known as the Salt Range. It lies in the Punjab region, and rises to a height of 8,000 feet. In the midst of this range are the largest beds of rock-salt known to exist in the world. They were formed ages ago, when salt water rested over the region.

At the present time rock-salt is known to be forming at the bottom of Great Salt Lake.

Wives of Tomorrow
By FRANCES McDONALD
A Moral Defective.

I HAVE been married fourteen years and have two children. My husband is a kind man and is good to his family, but he is constantly having love affairs with other women. I have absolute proof that in two instances the girls' parents have come to my house and told me and complained. He promises to do better, but it seems an impossibility. He is now having an affair with an 18-year-old girl. (He is 38.) I found a letter he wrote thanking him for the wrist watch he had given her. He claims all men do these things, and thinks, because he is good and kind to his family, that that should excuse him. Is anything he does. Do you think so?

MARY V.
It is natural that your husband should try to excuse his irregularities by slandering the entire male sex. However, such statements are ridiculous. It is quite true that many men are prone to contaminating influences under similar circumstances. Men are constantly in contact with temptation. Women are not. When women are exposed to contaminating influences, even to influences harmless in themselves, but fraught with the possibility of danger, they fall in just about the same ratio that men do. Most men and most women side-step danger for reasons dictated by common sense as well as moral sense. We do pay for folly, and not in wrist watches only.

STOCKS AND CARRIERS SHARES MOVE AHEAD

Few Specialties, Too, Resist
Broad Bear Attack in Confusing Market.

CALL FUNDS 8 PER CENT

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—The bull party concentrated its activities on the utility section of the stock market today, leaving most of the rest of the field, with the exception of a few rails and specialties, to the bears. This division of activity produced the most irregular and confusing market of the new year.

Sharp difference of sentiment developed over the credit situation, with call money mounting to 8 per cent as banks withdrew about $20,000,000 more in preparation for month-end settlements. Tomorrow is expected to see the peak of the month-end money pinch and is the day of the weekly meetings of the New York Federal Reserve Bank and the Bank of England. It was said in circles close to the Federal Reserve that an increase in the bank's England's discount rate would eliminate the necessity of an increase here. This cast a new light on the situation, as an increase at London has been regarded as the primary step for an increase in New York. It appears that the Reserve authorities feel that such action would attract gold abroad and tend to reduce speculative activity at New York.

Neither Anxious to Raise Rate
Neither bank is anxious to raise its rate, fearing that business may suffer, but with London losing gold, it is felt that the Bank of England would be the logical bank to act. Color is lent to the theory by the fact that Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England, conferred with officials of the New York Federal Reserve Bank today.

There was little in the day's news to give the weekly steel trade review, which were phrased in varying degrees of optimism. American Metal Market said "some aspects of the situation do not appear as favorable as this date is said to be expected from predictions made before the year opened, but that in a familiar appearance at the end of January."

Iron Trade Review, on the other hand, said "what is undoubtedly the best January in the history of the iron and steel industry from the standpoint of production" is closing.

Dozen Lifted to New High.
About a dozen utilities were lifted to new highs, among them American and Foreign Power, which advanced 1/2 point, and North American, which was bid up 6 to 9 points, and American Telephone, which was sent up 5 points to a new top of 22 1/2. With the exception of these persistent heaviness, the bulls have definitely turned to the utilities, which were somewhat neglected during the bull market of late last year.

Several of the rails responded to the excellent December earnings statements. C. & O. and Atchafalaya mounted 2 and 3 points. Amusement shares were strong. Lewis' teaching a new top. Electrical Equipment, which had been in a slump, General Electric mounting about 13 points to 200 1/2, a new high. International Silver made an extreme gain of 10 points, and Joseph Lead rallied about 4 points on the New York Central's application to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to build a 3 1/2-mile spur into the company's mines in upper New York State.

Steel Under Pressure.
U. S. Steel encountered much disappointed selling over the failure to secure an extension of its operating permit to build a new plant at Lake Erie. It sold down more than 4 points and ended 13 points under its recent high. The market for steel was generally weak, with Chrysler, Chrysler and Midland Steel selling about 4 to 10 points, while Goodrich, International Harvester and American Smelting were among issues losing 2 to 3 points. The new General Motors stock lost more than 10 points. The old stock was stricken from the list.

Commodity markets were irregular, cotton encountering further selling while grains improved, wheat helped by further reports of damage to the winter crop and corn by its strong technical position.

In the foreign exchange sterling was again easy, the cable rate dropping 1-1/2 of a cent to $4.84 7/8. Pooties lost more than 1-3/4 of a cent as result of the military uprising in Spain.

CHICAGO GRAIN.
Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.)—Unusually official reports of widespread adverse conditions for winter wheat in the Northwest, a decided stimulating effect on wheat values was observed. The market for wheat was generally strong, with wheat futures and cash prices showing a decided upward movement.

Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 1-1/2 to 2 cents higher, with corn 1/2 cent and 1/4 cent up, and soybeans, and provisions unchanged to 25 cents.

Prevalence of ice and lack of a snow blanket throughout many important wheat producing sections were given particular attention by the market. Wheat from Washington for the week and in the Kansas State market was sold at a premium of 10 to 15 cents over the market rate.

A forecast of colder weather in the West led to a decline in the price of wheat. The market for wheat was generally weak, with wheat futures and cash prices showing a decided downward movement.

Wheat was sold at a premium of 10 to 15 cents over the market rate. The market for wheat was generally strong, with wheat futures and cash prices showing a decided upward movement.

GEORGE WASHINGTON U. BEATEN BY MILLIES, 40-20

Nurmi Facing Huge Field Tonight

50 Hopefuls Divided in 2 Races in 2-mile Event at Newark.

Finn to Meet Sterner Opposition With Long Handicaps.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—There are few records Paavo Nurmi has not captured in his long running career, but it looks as though he may add another in tomorrow night's meet in Newark by defeating the opponents that have been beaten in a single race.

Even though the field of 50 hopefuls entered with Nurmi in the 2-mile handicap at the St. Joseph's Catholic Club meet at the 113th Regiment Armory, Newark, has been split into two different races. Paavo will be called upon to pass an unheard-of number of runners to cross the finish line first.

His opponents all have handicaps, some of them being placed 170 yards, or nearly a full lap, ahead of the famous Finn.

Gregory, Six-Mile Champion, To Be Chief Opponent.

Running against a more select field in the same meet almost exactly four years ago in his first invasion of the United States, Nurmi set two records, although both have been lowered since, one by himself, and one by Willie Hiltola. The marks were for 2½ and 5 miles. Nurmi defeated Prim, Fager and Nilsson, fellow Scandinavians, on the way.

This time his principal opposition is expected to come from Louis Gregory, national junior 6-mile champion, who represents St. Joseph's and Irving Totten, former Union College star, running for the Millrose A. A. Leo Lemmond, the Boston A. A. and American Olympic runner, is entered in another event, the 1-mile.

Edwards Seeks to Aton for Defeat by Kennedy of G. U.

Phil Edwards, New York University negro, who represented Canada in the Olympics, is to start in the 1,000-yard event along with Jimmy Kennedy, Georgetown freshman who sprang a great surprise by defeating him earlier in the season. Edwards, now in fine form, hopes to wipe that out with a sweeping victory.

The three stars of different Olympic banners—Nurmi, Lemmond and Edwards—may or may not meet before the season is over, but there appears at this early season stage, at least, to be some hesitancy on the part of one or all of them toward a race against such high class opposition.

Chicago Courtman Dies Between Halves of Game

Chicago, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Robert Liebold, 19, basketball player on an amateur team, died between halves of a game last night at the Olivet Institute Gymnasium.

Liebold had retired to the locker room with his teammates. He drank a glass of ice water and fell dead.

Farrells Challenge

Tom Armour, Sarazen

St. Augustine, Fla., Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Johnny Farrell, national open golf champion, and his brother, Jimmy, have challenged Tommy Armour and Gene Sarazen, former holders of his title, to an exhibition match here February 22, hoping to wipe out a defeat suffered at the hands of the same pair last year.

Boston Mayor Signs

Sunday Baseball Bill

Boston, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols today signed the ordinance permitting professional Sunday sports in Boston.

Under its provisions the Boston Braves would be required to pay $2,500 and the Red Sox $1,000 for permits to play Sunday baseball. Difference in the parking capacity of the two baseball parks is the reason for the difference in the cost of the permits. Braves Field seats 40,000 and Fenway Park 25,000.

SHIFT SENDS NEW COACH TO TECH

Edwards, Ex-Wabash Athlete, in Charge of Baseball.

MALCOLM M. EDWARDS, a graduate of Wabash College in Indiana, will coach the baseball team at Tech High School this spring in the place of Stanley Collins, who was announced yesterday in a list of personnel changes in the physical training departments of the public high schools. The changes will take effect tomorrow.

The Edwards-Collins shift was the only one of four affecting the position of a major coach in the senior high schools. Collins, who was a temporary appointee at Tech, will join the athletic training staff at Hine Junior High.

Edwards goes to Tech from Gordon Junior High and his place there will be filled by Harold Blackman, who will be transferred from Columbia Junior High. Paul Doerr, whose place at Hine will be filled by Collins, will take up academic teaching.

The changes also involved Seruch T. Kimble, faculty athletic adviser and athletic director at Central High. Kimble is to be relieved of the duties of athletic director and assigned to academic work, although he will retain his baseball coaching job and his position as faculty athletic adviser. Irving Coggins, Central basketball coach, will take over Kimble's old charge of physical training.

Coggins participated in basketball, baseball and track at Wabash, and before coming to Washington was a physical training instructor at the New Castle (Ind.) High School.

Coach Edwards participated in basketball, baseball and track at Wabash, and before coming to Washington was a physical training instructor at the New Castle (Ind.) High School.

Move Revived To Legalize Boxing

Fees for Bouts Among Amateurs Goal Before Congress Ends.

Ornstein Will Confer With House Committee Head Today.

EFFORTS to legalize admission charges for amateur boxing bouts in the District of Columbia will be renewed with increased vigor today when Charles L. Ornstein, secretary of the South Atlantic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, conferring with Representative Frederick N. Zihlman, chairman of the House District committee, with a view toward speeding action on the Watson-Uppike bill in the House before Congress adjourns early next month.

The action of Ornstein will be the first definite step in the renewal of the fight which started during the last session of Congress to give the District amateur boxing bouts where admission could be charged and winners' medals and prizes awarded.

An intimation of continuing the fight was made last night, however, by Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, who addressed the spectators at an amateur boxing program held at the Jewish Community Center.

Walsh believes Bill Has Chance To Pass This Session.

Expressing earnest favor of boxing and sympathy for organizations in which individuals who would seek the public to bear the expense of staging amateur bouts, Senator Walsh stated it was his belief that something could be done in this session of Congress to get the Watson-Uppike bill through.

Ornstein hopes to enlist the aid of Representative Zihlman in bringing the bill to a vote in the House. It was passed without a dissenting vote by the Senate in the last session and is now in the hands of Representative Zihlman's committee.

Ornstein points out that already this year amateur boxing shows have been staged by the Jewish Community Center, the City Club, Knights of Columbus and Georgetown University without any violation of law and order or the need of police interference. These organizations, he feels, have demonstrated that the sport is most desirable here.

Bill Has Approval of Pickett, Reform Leader.

Little opposition is now believed to exist to passage of the Watson-Uppike measure. Ornstein, however, is not fighting, there is no fear that amateur boxing with admissions and distribution of medals would bring an undesirable finish to an otherwise mediocre and abbreviated program of amateur boxing matches last night at the Jewish Community Center.

Kritt, representing the Center, obtained the judges' favor by dint of a persistent attack in the fourth and deciding round while his opponent faltered and was knocked out in the previous rounds.

For three rounds these boys threw punches at each other in amazing fast fashion for amateurs and the bout was all the more interesting due to the contrasting style of fighting each employed. Kritt, as said before, packs his wallop in his right hand while the City Club lad is an orthodox puncher.

Strybowski Slows Down in Extra Round of Bout.

Strybowski, after having held the Hewitt boxer even by exchanging one hard blow to the head for another, slowed down in the final round and got in only a single stab as Kritt continued the earlier hard action and peppered his head and body with both gloves.

When first scheduled, the show called for the matching of Joe Lesser, captain and ace heavyweight of the City Club Team, with Mike Tardugno, star 118-pounder of the Center, but illness of Lesser prevented the bout taking place. Later plans would have brought Tardugno together with Joe Tamm, of the City Club, but Tardugno was forced to withdraw because of an injury to his nose sustained while boxing for Georgetown University last Friday night.

Angie Tardugno, older but smaller brother of Mike, scored for the Center in the second bout of the program, planting a hard left hook on the head of Hugo Stalibotta, of the City Club, enough times to win the decision in three rounds.

New York, Jan. 30 (A.P.).—The Intercollegiate Rowing Regatta on the Hudson, at Poughkeepsie, will be held this year on June 24, it was announced today by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association.

Crowder Balks at $2,000 Raise, Returning Contract

Ex-Nat. Best Pitcher of 1928, Demands More of Browns.

Special to The Washington Post.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Jan. 30. "General" Alvin Crowder, former National, who after being traded to the Browns, suddenly recovered his health and led the American League pitchers last season with a record of 21 victories as against only 5 defeats, is making holdout motions. Alvin, who is spending the winter months on his farm just north of Winston-Salem, believes that his 1928 record entitles him to a substantial increase of salary and declares that he is determined to get it.

While the "General" was unwilling to give details of his salary argument with the St. Louis Club, it is understood that he was offered a $2,000 raise, but he believes that his 808 winning percentage of victories calls for a much more substantial increase.

"I showed last year that I was a winning pitcher," he said today, "and expect to be paid accordingly. My salary last season was not high in fact it was one of the lowest received by any of the regulars. In baseball a player is expected to stand a cut following a poor season and I think that it should work the other way following a good year."

"General" Says He Will Stand Pat Until Demands Are Met.

"I have returned the contract they sent me and told them this, but have heard nothing more from the club. I don't want to be termed a holdout. I'm simply demanding what I consider is my due, and do not intend to sign until I get what I consider is a fair offer."

Crowder's success with the Browns last season proved a sensation, especially in Washington. President Clark Griffith, after having spent quite a sum trying to cure the "General" of stomach trouble, "wished" him on the St. Louis club in a trade. Almost immediately he regained his health and pitched winning ball, scoring twelve victories in a row. He ended with the highest average of any regular pitcher in the league, proving an "iron man" by participating in 41 games.

DREAMS OF GREATER GARDEN

—By Edwin (Hot) Cole—
NEW AIR CASTLE ARCHITECT

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Jan. 30.—A brisk and talkative gentleman giving his name as Mr. Edwin Cole, who has been in New York since the death of Tex Rickard, claiming to represent a brand-new series of millionaires who will construct and conduct a bigger and better Madison Square Garden and set up a business opposition to Mr. Rickard's millionaires. Mr. Cole's principal millionaires are named as William Bartlett, of Atlantic City, but he states that he has a large number of other millionaires on hand and promises to construct, back up a steam shovel and start building his supergarden almost immediately or perhaps it would be correct to say that he threatens to do so, for the idea of another Garden full of millionaires is rather disturbing.

Mr. Humbert Fugazy, the great air castle architect, who has been building superaires in the backrooms of refreshment stores, for years, sometimes building what Fugazy himself calls them in a single night, is to be something important in the new enterprise.

Fugazy Outlines the Finest Structures in Back Room.

I do not quite get his function in the scheme, but I gather that he is going to do something big because he is always going to do something big.

The new group of millionaires ever go so far as to let Fugazy print and they will use the space for the indoor ocean where we will hold the speedboats. We expect to have a seating capacity of about 150,000 for a price right and a unique thing about the seating arrangements will be that every seat will be a ringer.

It was a fascinating plan and it all seemed feasible there in the backroom of the refreshment resort in Brooklyn. Somehow impossible things always seemed feasible with the steins on the table. But unfortunately the clock struck and the waiters who had been yawning over the automatic piano with the stained glass windows and the glass-stained case, closed in and removed the steins and we turned to get our hats and leave.

Bartender's Wet Towel Spells Tragic End to Specifications.

And as I passed the table on the way out I saw a soiled hand containing a moist and moldy towel make one wide, sweeping pass over the festive board.

"Hold it," exclaimed. "Hold it." But one swipe of a bartender's towel had completely obliterated Humbert Fugazy's arena, yacht landing, motor speedway, enclosed ocean aerodrome deck, towers, 150,000 ringer seats and all. The plan seemed less feasible in the morning and it has seemed less feasible every hour since then, for I have not had the pleasure of holding a millionaires' party since that night.

Still I remember enough about his address on the backroom table to testify for him if he should have to sue Mr. Cole and his millionaires for plagiarizing his plan in the new $100,000 super garden the construction of which is to begin right away, just as it has been staying right away for the last four years.

Millionaire's Discovery

That They Are Becoming Common

I hesitate to administer millionaires, because as Mr. Rickard used to say, they are all fine people, but I have an impression, nevertheless, that the customers are becoming sick of millionaires. The millionaires are Mr. Rickard's discovery in the first place, but he professed to hear about his enterprise, but he could not speak of prize fighters or hockey players or ball players. All he spoke of was millionaires, and the reaction was to reply, "Oh, my God—millionaires—if they were millionaires—became so common that the common customers got them in their hair, as the saying goes."

They behaved as well as any other customers, but it became tiresome after while to have a millionaires plucked or to be prodded in the back while one was watching the prize fights and to hear about his enterprise, but he could not speak of prize fighters or hockey players or ball players. All he spoke of was millionaires, and the reaction was to reply, "Oh, my God—millionaires—if they were millionaires—became so common that the common customers got them in their hair, as the saying goes."

Fans Are Sick of Millionaires.

Mr. Cole, the new millionaire fan, evidently sought to establish himself in one of his first public announcements as manager in charge of the construction of Humbert Fugazy's air-castle. He said, "I have played with millions since I was a boy. I am a millionaire myself."

If I am any judge, that lets Mr. Cole out now. It is my impression that the customers are sighing for just one more night at a fight club like Jim Buckley's one place and to hear Mr. Buckley announce from the ring just before the start of the main event, "I wish to warn you all to watch your pocketbooks and to sit on your overcoats, as I see we have some very undesirable members present."

Colonial Five Outclassed By Navy

Makes Best Showing in 2d Half Against Tars' Regulars.

Middies Use 16 Players and Lead 24-8 At End of Half.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 30.—Naval Academy courtiers broke their losing streak of four games here this afternoon sending George Washington University down to defeat, 40 to 20, in a dull, uninteresting game, yet replete with comical situations. The visitors finished strong after 30 minutes of listlessness to which they seemed to have no idea where the basket was located, few shots even hitting the rim.

Coach Wilson, of the Navy Team, sent his second stringers into action. After Joe Bauer, pivot man of this combination, got tossed out for more than his allotment of fouling, two third stringers saw action before the period ended. Up to the half, George Washington fouled the basket but once when, after 10 minutes of play, Allshouse followed a rebound for his team's only field goal. The count at half time was 24-8.

Navy Regulars Make Poor Showing in Second Half.

In the second period, Wilson kept his regulars out until 7 minutes had expired and the score stood 34 to 10. The big team minus Capt. Clair Miller and Lloyd, guard, who broke his wrist against Penn last Saturday night, appeared lost. They tossed out for more than his allotment of fouling, two third stringers saw action before the period ended. Up to the half, George Washington fouled the basket but once when, after 10 minutes of play, Allshouse followed a rebound for his team's only field goal. The count at half time was 24-8.

SANDE, AT BOWIE DAILY, IN HANDS TO RIDE IN DERBY

Noted Jockey Keeps Down To Weight

Rides While Superintending Stable at Bowie Track.

Now Weighs 116 Lbs.; Rode 2 Winners of Kentucky Classic.

By ARTHUR F. DEGREVE (United Press Staff Correspondent).

LOVE of the saddle has drawn Earl Sande, acclaimed in racing circles as the greatest jockey of the generation, back to the turf.

The slight, modest rider, whose remarkable judge of pace and natural horsemanship brought him employments worth more than $20,000 in ten years, is "keeping fit" and hopes to ride in the Kentucky Derby this year, he told the United Press last night.

"I hope to be able to ride in Maryland and Illinois," Sande said. "It may be the track rule won't permit it because I am an owner. I certainly intend to ride in the Kentucky Derby, however."

Sande deserted the saddle on September 15, 1928. He was having trouble making a desired weight. Dieting, he felt, was injuring his health. He now weighs 116 pounds—three pounds more than when he stepped from the pigskin, and hopes to lose at least 5 pounds of that in training. "Keeping fit," Sande said, consists of riding at Bowie when the weather is favorable and indulging in strenuous weight-reducing exercises.

Keeps Fit by Riding at Bowie Daily in Favorable Weather.

He makes a daily trip to Bowie, where his stable is wintered.

News of Sande's intended return to the saddle was favorably received in racing circles, where his career has been as colorful as the spectacular races he has ridden.

From a rider of horses at Western fairs, Sande in a decade became America's premier jockey.

In 1923 he rode Zev, famous Ramo-coco, to win the Kentucky Derby and repeated in 1925 with one leg up on Flying Arrow.

Shortly after this he was injured on the track at Santa Anita and rushed to a hospital, where his life was despaired of. Even though the broken bones healed, skilled surgeons said Sande would never ride again.

Recovery After Accident:

Rides Off at Pimlico.

But under the watchful care of his wife, a niece of Sam Hildreth, famous trainer of the Harry F. Sinclair Stable, Sande returned to the track in April, 1921.

Word that Sande would ride the famous colt Saracen at Hildreth's place brought thousands to the track. Many wondered if the tradition of the track would hold good and if Sande's nerve would be affected by his accident.

The race was one of the most spectacular in his career. Although his mount went away to a poor start, he clipped two-fifths of a second off the 6-furlong record. The crowd acclaimed Sande.

He was ruled off at Pimlico in 1927 on charges of "crowding," but later was reinstated.

What Today Means to You

JANUARY 31.
By MARY BLAKE.

IF January 31 is your birthday, the most propitious hours for today are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 1:15 p. m. to 2:15 p. m., from 4:45 p. m. to 5:45 p. m., and from 7:15 p. m. to 8:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:15 p. m. to 4:15 p. m. and from 7:15 p. m. to 8:15 p. m.

The stars portend that a feeling of depression will prevail during the first half of today and all affairs of importance should be carried on after 5 p. m. when mental barometers will rise to above normal.

Children born today will be rather superficial students, but they will be quick to pick up things through their powers of observation. They will make up in charm for what they lack in brilliancy. They will be full of good will and good cheer.

Your life will be full of both thought and action. You do not think, dream and drift, but you do and dare. Your thoughts are your decisions. Your actions are guided by concentrated planning. Opportunities do not catch you napping, neither need they be gorgeously arrayed to attract your eyes nor arrive with a blare of trumpets to catch your ear.

Making an Impression.

What goes to make a distinguished personality, character traits, or appearance?

Answer—Outside appearances go a long way in impressing the experienced and almost all the way in impressing the inexperienced. But experienced folks discover whether or not there are those undefinable things inside of the human house besides the outside paint and shutters.

Betty: I liked your idea very much. I am in my first year of high school. Many boys ask me to go sliding with them when there is snow. They also asked me to go to different parties. I don't mean to go every night, just once in a while. My mother doesn't approve of this. What do you say?

Answer—I vote for the snow, but against the show. (Copyright, 1929.)

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN.

JANUARY 31.

ANNA JANUOWA, proclaimed the greatest dancer of her time, was born this day, 1885, in Petrograd where she began her training in the Imperial Ballet School at the age of 10. In addition to her extraordinary grace and ability, the great dancer is credited with bringing a more natural and dramatic style to the art of dancing and of giving a more spiritual interpretation of the music than other famous artists of the past.

After leaving the ballet school she became prima ballerina of the Mariinsky Theatre in Petrograd. Then came her triumphs in Paris and London. In 1910, she made her first appearance in New York in the ballet, "Coppelia." Beside touring the United States, Paviowa appeared regularly at the Palace Theatre in London for some years. Wherever she went, whether in the United States or the capitals of the Old World, she was met with unstinted acclaim.

The noted actress, Tallulah Bankhead, a favorite both in America and England, was born this day, 1902, in Alabama.

Other noted women born this day include Lydia Avery Conoley Ward, American writer, 1845, and Lucy A. Yendes, author, 1851.

BUILDING OF STANDS FOR INAUGURAL FETE AT CAPITOL STARTED

Construction of Seats on Avenue for Parade Is Next Step.

8,000 TICKETS GIVEN TO NOTABLE GUESTS

Subcommittee Chairmen to Report Their Progress at Meeting Friday.

Construction work on the wooden inaugural platform and seats to be erected in front of the Capitol Building was begun yesterday, with workmen swinging into position the first heavy timbers which will support the temporary stands.

The inaugural committee is now arranging for building of parade grandstands on Pennsylvania avenue between Thirteenth and Seventeenth streets northwest, along the line of march, but has not yet decided whether to order construction of additional seats on Pennsylvania avenue below Thirteenth street northwest.

The section planned, between Thirteenth and Seventeenth streets, will provide seating accommodations for 28,000 spectators. Tickets are now being printed, and 8,000 complimentary tickets will be distributed among distinguished guests, including senators, representatives, diplomats, the Republican national committee, State governors, State committee chairmen, newspaper men and photographers.

The photographers, both film and cameramen, are planning for a strenuous week during the inaugural period. Andrew May, president of the White House Photographers Association and chairman of the subcommittee on photographic arrangements, is making plans for "shots" at all public inaugural functions. The charity inaugural ball will be among the events to be depicted in pictures. All subcommittee chairmen will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Willard Hotel to report on progress of their committees. Suggestions for improvement of the present inaugural program will be made and discussed at the meeting.

Walsh to Start Soviet Talks at Georgetown

Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, regent of the Georgetown Foreign School, will give the first of a series of weekly lectures this evening at 8:30 o'clock in Gaston Hall on "Russia and the Russian Revolution."

His topic tonight, laying the ground work for a general discussion of Soviet problems, is "Russia at the Cross Roads on November 7, 1917." Sir Bernard Pares, director of the School of Slavonic Studies of London University, distinguished authority on Russian affairs, will be the lecturer on February 7, he was announced. The public is invited.

Two Girls and Two Boats Are Saved From Ice

The fireboat was called out yesterday to release two motorboats frozen in the ice at Key Bridge, and a ladder was lowered into the Scapa Flow swimming pool to rescue two young girls who had broken through the ice on which they were playing. The girls were rescued and taken to the hospital. Veteran Who Shot Rival Sues Wife

J. A. Wood Alleges Plot to Have Him Held as Insane Man.

Charging his wife, Mrs. Battie L. Wood, an employee of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, with conspiring with other men, and representing herself to be a widow of a World War hero, Wood yesterday instituted suit for absolute divorce in equity division of the District Supreme Court.

Wood declared his wife conspired with another man in November, 1920, to have him committed to Walter Reed Hospital for mental observation. A short time later, he charged, he was sent to St. Elizabeth's Hospital and his wife filed a petition in the District Supreme Court to have him adjudged of unsound mind. A jury refused her petition, he said, and he was released from the hospital.

The petitioner said he then discovered the alleged conspiracy, and that the man with whom his wife conspired, and was returned to the hospital for the insane, in January, 1921, he was again liberated from the hospital and discovered his wife had been keeping company with other men, representing him to be a widow of a World War hero, and that she had been killed in action in France. She took up a subscription among her fellow employees to have a monument erected to purchase flowers for decoration of the grave in France, he declared.

Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Name Officers

Thomas J. Lewellyn was unanimously elected president of the Rhode Island Avenue Citizens Association meeting at the Sherwood Presbyterian Hall, Twenty-second street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, last night.

Other officers elected are George F. Dodge, Mrs. Gerald J. Bowne and Julien F. Belfield, past presidents; Thomas J. Lewellyn and Thomas S. Mallon, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations. Kenneth P. Armstrong, present delegate, was narrowly defeated. G. C. Wilson is the retiring president.

Federal Bar Members Hear Pay Raise Talk

Efforts of the Federal Bar Association to secure enactment of salary increase legislation for Government employees will be centered against the provisions demoting Civil Service classes four and eleven, John Ernest Downing, attorney of the Veterans' Bureau, told fellow members of the association last night at the Department of the Interior auditorium.

He termed employees of these classes "the poor heads of the Government" and said that the Government was "paying them less than the men who after great efforts of Congress to raise the salaries of all Government employees will be the only persons demoted by present legislation."

The photographers, both film and cameramen, are planning for a strenuous week during the inaugural period. Andrew May, president of the White House Photographers Association and chairman of the subcommittee on photographic arrangements, is making plans for "shots" at all public inaugural functions. The charity inaugural ball will be among the events to be depicted in pictures. All subcommittee chairmen will meet tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the Willard Hotel to report on progress of their committees. Suggestions for improvement of the present inaugural program will be made and discussed at the meeting.

Construction work on the wooden inaugural platform and seats to be erected in front of the Capitol Building was begun yesterday, with workmen swinging into position the first heavy timbers which will support the temporary stands.

The inaugural committee is now arranging for building of parade grandstands on Pennsylvania avenue between Thirteenth and Seventeenth streets northwest, along the line of march, but has not yet decided whether to order construction of additional seats on Pennsylvania avenue below Thirteenth street northwest.

The section planned, between Thirteenth and Seventeenth streets, will provide seating accommodations for 28,000 spectators. Tickets are now being printed, and 8,000 complimentary tickets will be distributed among distinguished guests, including senators, representatives, diplomats, the Republican national committee, State governors, State committee chairmen, newspaper men and photographers.

Judge Defends Allen, Charges Are Dropped

Police Board Only Five Minutes in Reaching Decision to Dismiss Case—Mattingly Comments

Him for Helping Him in Court.

The Police Trial Board yesterday dismissed a charge of conduct prejudicial to the good order, reputation and discipline of the Police Department, filed against Policeman Robert J. Allen, of the Third Precinct, following his testimony in defense of a delinquent store proprietor in Police Court in December.

Members of the board deliberated less than five minutes in reaching their verdict after listening to more than four hours' testimony.

Specifications in the charge against Allen accused him of interfering with the trial of a delinquent store proprietor, who was tried and acquitted of a charge of violation of health regulations and of failing to make a report on disposition of the case within an hour, as is required by police regulations.

Police Court Judge Robert E. Mattingly, who tried the Ghilardi case, defended Allen's action in the case. He sent the following letter to members of the Trial Board:

"Respecting charges filed against Officer R. J. Allen on January 11, 1929, would respectfully say I remember trying the Ghilardi case, and that against one Erastis Ghilardi for violation of health regulations.

"In hearing the testimony of the Inspector, Mr. Philip Calk, and that of Officers Jacobs and Allen, whom I called to my own volition, I was fully satisfied that no case whatever was made out and dismissed the same.

"Instead of using glasses, testimony was read from a newspaper clipping. There was no manifestation of undue interest in the case by either Officer Allen or Jacobs other than a desire to tell the truth and see that justice was done. I believed every word they said, and I want to commend both of them for helping me to arrive at a just decision. They only testified when I asked if the defendant had any witnesses, and personally told both officers mentioned to take the stand. I can see nothing offensive or objectionable in their doing so, and in my humble opinion neither of them violated any police regulation. And I would make such statement under oath if necessary.

"Very respectfully,
"ROBERT E. MATTINGLY."

Representative Gibson (Republican, Vermont), chairman of the subcommittee investigating District affairs, was an interested spectator during part of the trial. Representative Gibson said he attended the trial merely to "see how things were run."

It is known, however, that Representative Gibson has followed closely Allen's career on the police force since the policeman created a sensation in 1927 by accusing fellow officers of inflicting corporal punishment on delinquents.

It is known also that Allen's frankness with which he has certain incidents in the Police Department has been the cause of a sensation in the Police Department. He has been referred to as "Keep him quiet" in the future.

Allen was defended by Bolitha J. Laws, a local attorney.

Without a first-class, up-to-date Navy the United States is forever in danger of war and aggression. Rear Admiral Robert E. Coontz, U. S. N., told the delegates to the fourth Women's Patriotic Conference on National Defense at its session in Memorial Continental Hall yesterday afternoon. Admiral Coontz also claimed that the United States is in the rear of other nations in regard to a merchant marine. He pointed out that a "second-class Navy is said to be worse than none at all; for it gives the people a false sense of security."

The admiral reminded the audience that cruisers take seven years to complete after authorization, and that if the United States continues to run behind in this regard the day will come when "no hurry or great capital on hand will avail to save us."

The convention voted to support the cruiser bill with the time limit. The resolution will be forwarded today to Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, chairman of the Senate committee on naval affairs.

Robbins is Speaker. Assistant Secretary of War C. B. Robbins was another Government spokesman whose words were listened to attentively by the 500 delegates from 38 organizations present. He explained the mobilization plan of the United States Army, which call for 4,075,330 officers and men for six field armies in event of war. He urged the delegates to support the national defense act and to like the United States never had or is likely to have a large standing army, and therefore would depend for its main power in time of war largely upon its organized reserves.

This country is in the present quagmire in regard to immigration is a necessary part of national defense was the claim of Senator David Reed, of Pennsylvania, who was made by Representative Florence Pragg Kahn, of California, at the morning session. At its conclusion the delegates went to the House, where they were received by President Coolidge.

At the afternoon session America's air defense was outlined by Assistant Secretary of War F. Truesdell Davis, while Gen. Albert C. Cox spoke on "Our Citizen Army."

Pacifists Are Flayed. Women's part in preserving homes and country was stressed by Assistant Secretary of War F. Truesdell Davis, while Gen. Albert C. Cox spoke on "Our Citizen Army."

The concluding day's session of the conference will begin this morning at 9:30 a. m., when Senator Daniel P. Reid will address the body on the subject of "Treasures."

The conference will adjourn after the report of the resolutions committee, and at 3:30 p. m. a pilgrimage to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington will take place under the direction of H. H. Wood, chairman, and Mrs. Amos Fries, vice chairman.
